SUPERVISORS PLAN UNITED SEWER DISPOSAL PLANT FOR USE OF ADJOINING CITIES

Bill to Be Submitted to the Legislature at Its Forthcoming Session for the Aid of Communities That Wish to Join Forces for Solution of Problems

NO LAW NOW ALLOWING CO-OPERATION

Discusses Two Ordinances Adopted by the Board Within Last Few Weeks for Purpose of Co-ordinating County and Municipal Governments

"As the result of numerous requests which have been received by the board of supervisors from Burbank, San Fernando, Lankershim, Van Nuys and vicinity regarding a solution for their sewage disposal problems we have asked the county council to prepare an amendment to be introduced at the coming session of the legislature, which if adopted, will permit the application of the statute which provides for the forming of certain improvement districts, to also include sewage disposal districts. There is not at the present time any law on the statute books which would allow of a plan by which the cities can co-operate in the matter of working out a plan for sewage disposal,"—Supervisor Wright, before the public forum of the Thursday Afternoon club, yesterday.

Supervisor Wright was the principal speaker at the meeting in public forum yesterday of the Thursday Afternoon Club, in the K. of P. Hall.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. E. V. Bacon presided. Mrs. Bacon announced a reciprocity day at the Newhall women's club on Wednesday, January 17. A card party will be held at her home, at 3802 Revere avenue, on January 19. Supervisor Wright spoke on "County Cooperation in Solving Problems of County and Municipal Government."

Of particular interest in connection with the topic being discussed was the reading by Supervisor Wright of two ordinances which have been adopted within the past few weeks by the board of supervisors. One of these creates a regional planning commission to consist of five members to be appointed by the board of supervisors, one from each supervisorial district. The other ordinance defines somewhat the duties of the commission. Mr. Wright stated "the commission will be under the direction and control of the board of supervisors. It shall be in the power of the commission to make a study of the problems of the county in respect to residential and industrial conditions, traffic problems, parks, boulevards, flood control, subdivisions and the laying out of streets and those matters affecting the growth of the county, and to make to the board of supervisors recommendations for the solution of the same. To seek to interest various municipalities in a joint effort to understand and solve common problems of development confronting them and the county.

"The planning commission is new in Los Angeles and is the outgrowth of the regional planning conferences which were held last year. The need for this commission has long been apparent. Sections of the county have been going ahead without regard to other sections adjoining. Streets are not laid out to confcrm to streets in other subdivisions adjoining. The passing upon proposed subdivisions will probably be one of the chief duties of the commission."

Cooperation of city and county in the matter of flood control, traffic problems, health work, etc., were also explained by Mr. Wright. In the matter of traffic, he said: "We must build wider boulevards to get in and out of the cities, and these boulevards must be connected up and must be continuous. This is another problem that the regional planning commission will help solve.

"To take care of the overcrowded condition at Olive View tubercular institute, eight more buildings are being built, which will increase the capacity from 100 to 250 patients. These are open-air treatment buildings and we hope to build two more soon for children. We are also planning to build a first-class maternity hospital in connection with the county hospital." Mr. Wright concluded his talk by describing conditions at the county jail. This was followed by a general discussion of various problems.

LA CRESCENTA IMPROVEMENT FOLKS MEET

First Meeting of Year Is Marked by Reports of Accomplishments

LA CRESCENTA, Jan. 5.—The first meeting of the year of the La Crescenta Improvement Association was held at the school auditorium last night with C. E. Culberson, the newly elected president, in charge. One of the outstanding features of the meeting was a resume of the work of this organization during the past year. George H. Dunlop, the retiring treasurer, made a splendid report on the expenditures and finances of the association for the year. This report demonstrated the amount of money required to maintain the fire equipment for this district, and President Culberson laid great stress on the importance of every resident in the valley becoming a member of the association for the protection of his home.

Secretary C. R. Pool read a letter from Supervisor Henry W. Wright in regard to the fire assessment district stating he had referred the matter to the County Council and that he would be glad to cooperate and bring same before board of supervisors, requesting state legislature to provide statute by which an assessment district can be formed.

President Culberson, having just returned from the east, postponed the naming of committees for the year until sometime during the month. In his talk to the association he outlined some of the work for the year and asked for the cooperation of the entire valley. Mr. Culberson also announced that he had plans for a splendid evening's entertainment for the members of the association. Many new members were enrolled.

MUD DELAYS WORK OF GARBAGE MEN IN GRAND VIEW

So City Manager Reeves Finds Out and Reports to Council

Garbage is supposed to be collected every Thursday and tin cans and rubbish are gathered on the 11th of each month in the Grand View district, according to a report made to the Glendale city council by city manager Reeves, Thursday night. No report was made on the collection on West Doran street, which matter has been held in abeyance for one month by the collector.

Mr. Reeves stated: "The collection of garbage in the northwest section during the past few weeks has been made a difficult matter on account of trucks being unable to travel over the muddy ground." Manager Reeves' investigation was brought about by complaints of residents of the northwest section that garbage and rubbish collection in that district is being badly neglected.

GAS REDUCTION IS ORDERED HERE

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 5.—Gasoline dropped two cents a gallon at Standard Oil stations today throughout California, Oregon, Washington, Nevada, Alaska and Hawaii. The cut made the price here 20 cents. A similar cut was made in the price of distillate. The new price is the lowest since 1918 and is the second drop within two months.

Other companies were expected to follow with a like reduction immediately.

JESSE SMITH HAS LOST THAT BIG DIAMOND RING

Has anyone seen a 2½ karat diamond ring in a platinum setting at Broadway and Glendale avenue or at Colorado and Orange? Jesse Smith, president of the Chamber of Commerce has lost one. He thinks it may have gotten away from him at the Flintridge Country club, or at one of the Glendale corners mentioned. It is worth over $1000. He is offering a liberal reward for its restoration.

GULICK BUS CONSIDERED BY REALTORS

Realty Board Appoints Committee to Look Into His Proposition

WRIGHT TO EXPLAIN

Committee on Appraisal Work Is Appointed to Investigate

There was a small attendance at the meeting of the Glendale Realty Board Thursday to hear the report on his proposed motor bus service given by C. D. Gulick, who asked that the board appoint a committee of three to look into his proposition and to report back to the board. On motion of W. A. Horn, such a committee was ordered appointed.

It was decided to invite Supervisor Wright to appear before the board and explain the plan of operation and the method of election of the board of directors of the Regional Planning commission, at an early date.

The committee which was appointed to investigate the advisability of appointing an appraisal committee in the Glendale Realty Board, was continued for one week longer.

A committee consisting of Charles B. Guthrie, E. P. Hayward and Roy D. King was appointed to look into the matter of licenses being granted by the state to realtors in Glendale.

Considerable time was spent in talking over the minor points in the operation of the real estate business in Glendale.

PETER L. FERRY IS CANDIDATE FOR REGIONAL WORK

Selected to Represent 5th Supervisorial District on Commission

Peter L. Ferry was selected as a candidate of the Chamber of Commerce from the fifth supervisorial district for the board of directors of the Regional Planning commission of Los Angeles county.

On account of his experience in the construction of roads and other constructional features in Southern California Mr. Ferry is especially well qualified for the position.

It is understood that of the candidates who are brought forward the selection will be made by the board of supervisors.

THREE MOTOR CAR ACCIDENTS IN THE CITY

Three automobile accidents occurred in Glendale yesterday, according to police records. Machines belonging to S. A. Merriken, 123 South Central avenue, and Louis Curtis, 1950 Vassar street, came together at 10:30 o'clock in the morning at the corner of Ivy and Central. Little damage was done.

Guy Bates Post, the prominent actor, of Pasadena, and S. B. Berry of Los Angeles, were driving machines that collided at the corner of Glendale Blvd. and Seneca, the accident occurring at 4:30 in the afternoon. The damage was slight.

Joseph P. Dugind of Eagle Rock was driving a car that collided with a machine operated by R. J. Hamilton, 147 South Central, the accident taking place at the corner of Brand and Broadway at 7:45 last night. No one was injured.

MILK THIEVES

Harry Sloan, 18, of St. Louis, Mo., and Frank Rees, 19, of Bakersfield, were arrested for stealing milk bottles and rolls from homes on San Fernando road. They were brought in by Officer McGuire at 6:10 o'clock this morning, and will have a hearing before Judge Lowe today.

DEDICATION OF K. C. CLUBHOUSE SET FOR MONDAY

Biggest Event of History in the City to Be Held on January 8

The biggest event in Glendale Knights of Columbus circles since the inauguration of the council will take place Monday night at 8 o'clock when the beautiful $25,000 club house at 330 East Lomita avenue will be dedicated at a reception to Bishop Cantwell of the Diocese of Los Angeles and San Diego.

A splendid musical program has been arranged from 8 o'clock until 8:40, after which addresses will be made by Bishop Cantwell, Hon. Joseph Scott, Judge Paul J. McCormick, W. Joseph Ford, Hon. David Supple of San Francisco, Supreme Warden of the Knights of Columbus, and D. Joseph Coyne, state deputy.

The reception committee to the bishop is composed of Grand Knight Harry Girard, Past Grand Knights Peter L. Ferry, Henry M. Doil, Sr., H. Y. Henry and Leslie F. Wright. Arrangements, decorations, etc., are in charge of Lecturer Hugh Bryant.

Grand Knight Harry Girard has arranged a surprise musical program of forty minutes said to be unequalled in Glendale's musical history, each number being by an artist of recognized repute, and as the speakers are among the leading orators of the west the evening will undoubtedly bring added laurels to Glendale Council No. 1920 and to the "fastest growing city in America."

Owing to the club auditorium only accommodating 600 people, the dedication exercises will be limited to Knights of Columbus, adult members and their families, and the Grand Knights of the following councils—No. 621 of Los Angeles, Hollywood, Junipera Serra, Los Angeles, Pasadena, Van Nuys, Redondo, Long Beach, Santa Monica and Whittier.

After the dedication exercises the guests of honor, the officers and Grand Knights will attend a banquet at the Casa Verdugo Restaurant as guests of Mrs. Yorba Sowl.

GLENDALE HIGH TO HAVE CLASS BROADCAST

By Use of Radio, Principal Will Be Heard in All the Rooms

A method of broadcasting has been developed for high schools for which provision will be made in the new Glendale high plant. It is electrical and by its use the principal in his office can make an announcement which will be heard in all the class rooms of the building if desired or any group of rooms, by speaking into a receiver in the ordinary tone of voice. It will be increased in volume by an instrument having the character of a magnavox so that all within the room may hear. The system has been installed in the Piedmont high school and it is to be a feature of all the new high schools to be built in Oakland. The new Glendale high buildings will be wired for it and its installation can take place at any time the board elects.

VOCATIONAL WORK TO START AT HIGH

Declares School Is in Position to Work Under Smith-Hughes Law

Principal Moyse states that the hgih school is now in a position to start some vocational work late in the afternoons for which provision was made under the Smith-Hughes law, which provides that the national and state governments shall share the expense of maintaining such classes.

The start will be made in sewing and millinery after those departments have been vacated by the ragular high school pupils, and women of Glendale who want to secure instruction in those lines are asked to report at the office of the school. As there has been a big demand for work of that character, a large response is expected from the matrons of the city.

THE WEATHER

Southern California: Tonight and Saturday, fair. Light to heavy frost in interior.

Los Angeles and vicinity: Fair tonight and Saturday, with moderate temperature.

S.R.O. MARKS CONCERT OF MUSIC CLUB

High Auditorium Is More Than Filled to Hear Cadman and Princess

GIVE FINE PROGRAM

Idealized Indian Dress Harmonizes With Beautiful Indian Song

By CORINNE ORFF

With "standing room only" available to the late comers the people of Glendale most effectively displayed their interest in an all-American musical program, and particularly in the work of Charles Wakefield Cadman, composer-pianist, and Princess Tsianina, mezzo-soprano, when these two musical artists presented a program of unusual merit at the concert of the Glendale Music club held Thursday night at the high school auditorium.

Mr. Cadman has appeared before the members of the club at previous concerts but last night was the first appearance of Princess Tsianina. In introducing the artists Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, president of the Glendale Music club, said "Tsianina is a full-blood Indian of the Cherokee tribe and is the only Indian woman to do the kind of work she is doing. She has made a name for herself throughout the whole world."

For her work "over there" during the World war she was made an active member of the American Legion. Mr. Cadman is known nationally and internationally as the "foremost American composer." In presenting the program Mr. Cadman prefaced each group with a short sketch of the origin of the theme.

The first number on the program was a group of three Indian songs. "Invocation to the Sun-God," which is a harmohized and translated Zuni song written by Troyer, and "Lover's Proposal," also a Zuni tune by Troyer, were both rendered in the American tongue, the vocal part otherwise being done as it would have been on the reservation. The third song was "By the Waters of Minnetonka." This last selection was repeated by Princess Tsianina as an encore. The princess has a wonderfully rich and resonant mezzo-soprano voice which is particularly beautiful in the lower register. She wore an idealized Indian costume of white leather. The slurring from one note to another, as done by the princess, was said by Mr. Cadman to be characteristic of the various Indian melodies being interpreted.

The second number was a group of three piano selections of his own composition rendered by Mr. Cadman. The first was "The Pompadour's Fan," which is based on a French drawing room scene in the days of Louis XIV, with the animated conversation and fluttering of fans. The other two were American Indian melodies harmonized and idealized: "To a Vanishing Race," the melody for which is based on a Navajo Indian tune, and "The Wolf Dance." The original melody for the latter was sung by the Black Feet Indians of Montana during their war dance. Part one of the program concluded with a group of three vocal numbers by Princess Tsianina: "Pale Moon," by Logan; "From the Land of the Sky Blue Water" (Omaha), by Cadman, and "Ho Ye Warriors," by Cadman. The Indian women of Omaha, Mr. Cadman stated, were believers in thought transference and their thoughts of strength and victory were sent to their warriors in the latter song.

The ever popular "At Dawning" by Cadman, was requested as an encore and very beautifully interpreted by the Princess. Part two of the program was opened by Mr. Cadman who gave two numbers from his Omar Khayyam suite: "The Minstrel of Kashmira," based on a Hindu theme and supposed to represent a dance in the Sheik's tent, and "The Desert's Dusty Face," the episode being that of a caravan crossing the desert.

Mr. Cadman exhibited a genuine Indian flageolet, on which he played several Indian love songs, and also an Indian drum and several rattles. He explained how the Indians very accurately hand down both their music and words of the songs.

In the next group of vocal numbers by Princess Tsianina were "Tell Her My Lodge is Warm," an Alaskan Indian melody which deals with the frozen north and sled dogs, by Cadman; "The Naked Bear," also an Alaskan tune, the first verse of which was in Indian tongue and the second verse in English. The third song was "Canoe Song," from the opera "Shanewis" by Cadman. So beautifully was this interpreted that it was repeated for an encore.

The last part of the program was a group of selections from the opera "Shanewis" which was written for Tsianina and is the only American opera successfully produced for two seasons by the Metropolitan opera company. The first act is based on the story of Tsianina's life. "The Spring Song of the Robinwoman" and "Indian Lament" were very impressive. The program closed with the repeating "By the Waters of Minnetonka" (Lieurance) by Princess Tsianina.

SUNSET CANYON CLUB MEMBERS TO PROTEST

A meeting to protest against a recent increase in dues of the Sunset Canyon Country club was announced today by Dr. C. S. Steelman of Glendale. It will be held tonight at the chamber of commerce auditorium of Hollywood, Wilcox and Hollywood boulevard, at 7:30.

According to Dr. Steelman, the increase in dues was ordered by the directors of the club without the approval of the members. All members are requested to attend.

CITY MAY ENJOIN JELLISON

To Restrain Him From Filling in His Ravine on Boynton Street

IS FLOOD MENACE

Council Alleges It Endangers Thoroughfare and Other Land

The Glendale City Council last night decided, in the event that satisfactory results cannot be secured otherwise, to file an injunction suit, the purpose of which will be to compel E. V. Jellison, 1234 South Boynton street, to remove the dirt that he has had dumped in the ravine that runs through his property and to prohibit him from having other dirt emptied into the ravine.

This action was taken on recommendation of City Engineer Dupuy, who stated that in his opinion Boynton street, which is the property of the city of Glendale, at the point where it intersects with the wash, is being jeopardized by the filling in of this ravine.

According to City Engineer Dupuy, complaints against this ravine being filled in, made by neighbors in the vicinity of Boynton street, where it intersects with the wash, have been flooding the city hall during the past several days. These names Engineer Dupuy refuses to divulge. City Manager Reeves, City Engineer Dupuy and others from the city hall have visited the scene of the trouble and it was decided that the only way the city could take action in the matter was on the basis of the city's property being threatened by the filling in of the ravine.

On the other hand Mr. Jellison claims he secured permission of the city's engineering department before doing anything in the way of filling the gully.

"I called up the city engineering department before I started this work," said Mr. Jellison this morning, "and I was given permission to do what I wanted with the ravine. They told me that as that was my own property I could do as I desired in the matter of filling the hollow. A portion of my property lies on the opposite side of the ravine from my home and the ravine is filled up so that I may have a runway to haul material over to the other part of my land.

"I purchased this property three years ago and there has been very little water in the ravine since that time. I feel quite sure that no property will suffer through the filling of the ravine. I paid for that dirt at the rate of $1 per load and it is going to stay right where it is. What is more, I have contracted for 100 more loads and they are going to be dumped beside the dirt that is already in that ravine.

"If anyone's property is damaged through the filling in of my section of the ravine I will stand ready to pay the damage, but until that time comes no one has any kick coming."

"I have made a thorough investigation in my offices," said City Engineer Dupuy this morning, "and I can locate no one who ever talked with Mr. Jellison with regard to filling in this ravine. We have no record of him ever having been given permission to do this work."

It is expected that City Attorney Shaw will confer with Mr. Jellison this morning. If arrangements cannot be made for the removal of the dirt, the city attorney will, according to the instructions given by the council, bring the injunction suit against Mr. Jellison.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Sliding down a coal chute, Johnny Ashby was buried beneath a ton of soft coal. He was rescued without the loss of a lump.

GLENDALE TO LEASE ACRES TO HAZEN J. TITUS CO. FOR TEN YEARS AS PARK

Organization Proposes to Improve Property and Open it to the Public for Use, and Maintain It Without Cost to City

OLD RESERVOIR SITE ON LOUISE STREET

Declares It Plans Expenditure of $40,000 for Construction of Plant on Adjoining Land to Which City Land Would Give Entrance

Lease to two acres on the city's old reservoir site on Mountain street to the Hazen J. Titus Fruitcake company for ten years at $1 per year was ordered executed by the city council last night, after the reading of a proposition for its beautification and opening to the public as a park, in connection with its proposed factory on adjoining land from the company.

The acres lie in the foothills at the north end of Louise street.

The proposition from the company, signed by P. J. Merz, as secretary and treasurer, accepted by the council, was as follows:

"We beg to make the following proposal which will result in the creation of another park without cost to the city.

"We propose to spend not less than $40,000 for improvements and landscaping on property lying on the north of the present two-acre reservoir site on Mountain street, and propose to develop and improve and maintain the two-acre site as a park open to the public at all times, with the understanding that your body will grant us a lease on said two acres for 10 years and on consideration of one dollar per year.

"Said lease shall be prepared at once and placed in escrow with the Glendale State bank with instructions to deliver same to us when we have caused proposed buildings, improvements, etc., to be completed.

"It shall also be understood that after said development work has been completed and lease delivered that the council will at that time, if desired by us, cause an ordinance to be passed setting aside said two acre-site as a public park.

NIGHT SCHOOL ENLARGES ITS SCOPE

Salesmanship Class Formed and Naturalization Work Advocated

The night school at Glendale high is enlarging the scope of its work and several new departures will be made. The class in salesmanship, for example, which Principal Ferguson has been trying to promote ever since the school started, has finally materialized. It will meet Monday and Wednesday evenings from 8 to 9 and the initial enrollment numbers 20. There is room for more and those interested are asked to report next Monday evening. It will be taught by Paul Webb.

Another call upon the night school is for a class in naturalization work on the part of men and women seeking citizenship. As that is something the government is asking all the schools to take up, provision will be made for it as soon as enough enroll to justify such an organization.

There is now begininng a demand for classes in English by foreigners recently come to this country who want to learn to speak and write the language. This, too, will be met as soon as possible as part of the Americanization work the school is expected to carry on.

MASS MEETING IS CALLED BY SOUTH SIDE FOLKS

Cerritos Ave. P.-T. A. and So. Glendale Improvement Ass'n. Units

The Cerritos avenue P. T. A. and the South Glendale Improvement association have called a mass meeting for Saturday night at 7:30 o'clock at the Cerritos avenue school, to discuss improvements in the school district and a possible park site in that section of the city. As the matters which will come before the meeting are of vital importance to residents in that portion of Glendale, all citizens living there are urged to attend.

POSTMASTER IS GRATEFUL FOR CO-OPERATION

Tells of Results Achieved by the Postoffice Dept. During Holidays

The following has been received by the Glendale Daily Press:
Glendale Daily Press,
Glendale, Calif.

Gentlemen: Through the courtesy of your columns, I desire to express to the various firms and individuals my personal appreciation of their co-operation with the postoffice department during Xmas holidays. Through this wonderful support, I was enabled to, through the efficiency and co-operation also of my entire force, to establish a record of delivery of Xmas mail in this city. At no time during the holiday period was there any congestion either on the outgoing or incoming mail.

Through the courtesy of the board of education, I established a terminal at the high school gymnasium where we installed routing tables and bins and all parcel post paraphernalia for handling the Xmas packages.

Mr. W. W. Hunt, foreman in this office was placed in charge and his interest and enthusiasm extended to the workers resulted in a delivery organization that it will be hard to excel.

The outgoing mail under the direct supervision of Assistant Postmaster Hallett, Superintendent of Mails Walker and Foreman Hunt, was handled without any congestion.

I wish to extend my expression of appreciation to Mr. E. F. Heisser, president of the Independent Lumber company for horses furnished, the Bentley-Schoneman Lumber company for lumber, Pacific Telephone company for telephone installation of temporary phone, to the Glendale and T. D. Q L. theaters for the display slides, to the papers for the wonderful publicity given through their columns, to the firm of Cornwell & Kelty, extra scales furnished to meet an emergency; to Mr. A. W. Perry of the Chase & Sanborn company, for donation of coffee; to the lady members of the various postoffice families for furnishing sandwiches, doughnuts and various eatables besides coming to the office and serving coffee during the holiday season.

The grand total of 26,760 packages was delivered between the 18th and 30th of December, and the receipts of the office for the calendar year will exceed those of the previous year by approximately $50,000.

We issued in the neighborhood of 10,000 money orders more than the entire year of 1921 and expect to exceed this number during the present calendar year.

Thanking you in advance for any publicity that you may care to give this communication, I beg to remain,

Yours very truly
D. RIPLEY JACKSON,
Postmaster.

CLASSIFIED SATISFIES

CIVIC LOYALTY IS THEME OF THE ROTARY CLUB

Club to Be Organized at Burbank by Local Membership

"Loyalty to Glendale" was the theme of the very well attended meeting of the Rotary club held Thursday noon, at which covers were laid for the following guests: Warren Newton, A. L. Baird, C. L. Cressy, Arthur Hutchinson, Paul Kugler and D. Ripley Jackson.

In the absence of Secretary J. Herbert Smith, Rene Olin served as secretary pro tem. The illness of "Bill" Howe, who is a guest at the Mission Inn, was reported and on motion of Val Hollister the secretary was instructed to send him a telegram expressing hope for his speedy recovery.

A letter from Gil Cowan was read asking for a leave of absence.

In the absence of "France" Henry, community singing was led by Owen Emery, and a piano solo was played by Paul Carson. Announcement was made that Dr. Fay Stone had been elected to membership.

Under the call for reports, Charles Cooper as chairman of the committee appointed to organize a Rotary club at Burbank, reported the receipt of word from "International Rotary" authorizing the establishment of such a club.

Jack Huntley as the Rotary representative and chairman of the float committee reported total expenses of $781, and collections of $710, and on motion of Art Dibbern the club voted a donation of $25.

Responding to a request from Community Service for the appointment of a rotary committee, George Karr, Dan Kelty, and Jack Huntley were named.

Informal talks were made by several members, the first by "Val" Hollister on what outsiders think of the Glendale chamber of commerce. He declared it was considered the best of its kind and that it had made wonderful growth.

"Dick" White spoke on "Loyalty to Glendale" and made some telling points. The class of residents in this city, and the absence of a Japanese or a Mexican problem he considers largely responsible for its growth. Mention was made of an increase of enrollment in the city schools in five years of 178 per cent. The progressive charter of the citizenship was credited as a factor in growth, likewise the public assets of the city. Out of 36 charter cities he declared Glendale had shown the greatest growth in school enrollment, and the future development he predicted would be even greater than the past.

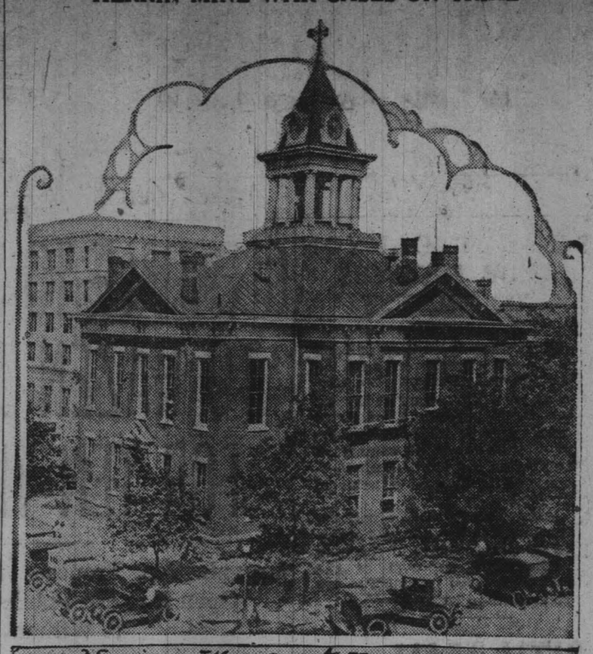
"Ed" Hewitt, the newly elected vice-president of the chamber of commerce, was next. He complimented city officials on recent acts, such as purchasing the park on Verdugo road, the buying of the 33 acres on San Fernando for water development and airport purposes, and the improvements made in the two city parks.

Owen Emery gave an interesting uplift talk, calling upon those present to "get behind and boost." Mr. Emery, who is chairman of the boys' work committee, will have charge of next week's meeting.

MRS. WAGNON JOINS

A. L. Baird reports with great satisfaction that he has just secured Mrs. Jack Wagnon, a former resident of Glendale, as a saleswoman of real estate and insurance.

HERRIN MINE WAR CASES ON TRIAL



Marion Ills. Court House.

This is the little courthouse at Marion, Ill., where five miners are on trial for their lives for alleged complicity in the Herrin, Ill., mine war massacre, in which non-union men and guards were shot to death by a mob.

How the High School Aided the Postoffice

Capt. Thos. W. Watson,
The Glendale Press,
Glendale, Calif.
My dear Captain:

I wish to express to you my personal appreciation, also that of the entire postal force, of the courtesy extended to us in allowing the use of the High School gymnasium as a parcel post terminal during the holidays.

Through the establishment of this terminal, we were enabled to make a record for the Glendale Post Office, not having experienced a moment's congestion during the holidays.

It might be of interest to you to know that between the 18th and 30th of December, we delivered in all from the terminal station in the High School gymnasium, a total of 26,760 packages. We had the facilities for handling the mail, the weather was also in favor and the cooperation of the citizens of Glendale, which all enabled us to make an enviable record for a one-year Post Office.

Again thanking you for your wonderful generosity, I beg to remain,

Yours very truly,
D. RIPLEY JACKSON,
Postmaster.

The bachelors of a certain town were very alarmed by the arrival of a fierce, man-hunting spinster.

They were all afraid she would choose them for her special attention and allurement.

However, their fears were allayed when she chose the young rector, and the approaching wedding was announced.

So relieved were they that they joined forces and presented the happy couple with a costly dinner service.

"What a magnificent service!" gasped the bridegroom when he saw it.

"Well, you see," explained the spokesman of the party, "it's really a thanksgiving service."

SIMS' RECOVER FROM ACCIDENT TO AUTOMOBILE

Struck by P. E. Car and Carried 85 Feet, Receiving Injuries

Miss Dorothy Sims, who has been the holiday guest of Miss Dorothy Houston of 440 West Myrtle, has returned to her home in Redondo, having been advised that her parents would be well enough yesterday to be moved from the hospital to their residence.

Mr. and Mrs. Sims, who were former residents of this city, at 450 West Myrtle, were the victims of an automobile accident on Christmas day in which they escaped death only by a seeming miracle. Their auto was struck by a 3-car Pacific Electric train and carried 85 feet before the train could be stopped, completely demolishing the machine. Mr. Sims, who was driving, was violently thrown against the steering wheel and 11 of his ribs were broken. He has made a wonderful recovery and expects to be completely restored. Mrs. Sims lost teeth and suffered from severe shock, but no bones were broken. Both are very fond of Glendale and hope to return to make their permanent home here next spring.

TEXAN A-BOOSTIN' COMES TO CITY BY AUTO

R. S. Kelly, Dalhart, Tex., Enraptured by Glendale and Gled to Tell'm

Glendale, Fair Queen of the Western Slope,
The home of the olive and vine;
Surrounded by all for which mortals can hope,
Where the sun rarely ceases to shine.
Thy people progressive, kind-hearted and true,
And grateful for what they possess;
A land, above all, to which honor is due,
And whose beauty no words can express.

BY R. S. KELLY

I left my home in Dalhart, Texas, September 12, 1922, came over the Lincoln Highway through Colorado, Idaho and southern part of Wyoming. For some time past my desire has been to see the country bordering on the Pacific; so, our party came over the Columbia highway, through Portland, Salem, Eugene and other interesting places, until we reached Medford, Oregon.

After visiting San Francisco, Oakland and other cities, I decided to visit Southern California before turning homewards. I must say that I am now truly glad of the decision to visit this part of the Golden State.

In all my travels I have seen nothing that appeals to me as does the rapidly developing city of Glendale. This comment is not based on a spirit of deception, for I have no pecuniary interest, as yet, in Glendale, but in all probability I shall soon own a home here.

Surrounded by beautiful hills, possessing a climate equal to that of any part of the American continent, where many varieties of fruits and vegetables are grown, where the rigors of winter, so common in other countries, are wholly unknown, Glendale is indeed favorably situated.

The one thing that impresses me most favorably is that the citizens of Glendale are doing all in their power to keep the white race to the front. I feel like taking off my hat to any community of people who have the pride to make a distinction in favor of our race.

I would say to the good people of Glendale, if you desire uninterrupted peace and progress in future, see that the best grade of Caucasian people settle in your city. Avoid trouble that must inevitably follow when the races come in contact. Blood is everything in the building of a city or a nation. All honor to the people who are striving for white supremacy.

MARY PICKFORD LEAVES T. D. & L. THIS EVENING

Today is the last day Mary Pickford will be seen in "Tess of the Storm Country" at the T. D. and L. theatre. If you have not been one of the more than 8000 Glendalians who have already seen this most wonderful film you will have to hurry—set all other plans aside and attend the T. D. and L. theatre today. Everyone loves Mary Pickford in her adorable film characacters—not forgetting the children—and not to see "Tess of the Storm Country" is to have missed one of the finest things ever done in films. It is Mary at her best in the story she loves best and did best, and a treat is in store for those who have not already seen it. To offer it to the public at the regular modest admission prices, Ralph Allan leaves no reason possible why everyone should or could not take opportunity to attend some one of its performances.

This picture has broken all records at the T. D. and L., and it should— it is a wonderful show. Go! If you have not already done so.

FANTASTIC GOWNS ON TRIFLING WOMEN

Through the sombre setting of "Trifling Women," Rex Ingram's strange story, of which he has made a film production, at the Glendale theatre, moves the brilliant figure of Zareda, the fortune teller, the only woman in the picture, played by the beautiful Barbara La Marr. Against the background of the story, Rex Ingram has made her a spot of radiant color, garbed in an infinity of hues, draped in exotic silks and satin, rich velvets and brocades.

It is estimated that upon the fifteen gowns worn by Barbara La Marr in the production over $20,000 has been spent, bringing the cost of each gown to more than a thousand dollars.

Four dressmakers were kept busy throughout the two months of production, and because of the intricacies of design and pattern were barely able to keep pace with the demand.

The story of "Trifling Women" takes place in Paris in the days of the Great War. Thus the gowns, ordered by Rex Ingram, must be made to reflect the exquisite lines and skill with which a Parisienne couturier would have incorporated in them.

MRS. A. A. BASSETT HEADS ST. MARK'S LADIES' GUILD

Social and Dinner of Parish Is Announced for January 23

Election of officers of St. Mark's guild took place at the meeting held Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the guild hall of the Episcopal church with Mrs. Mortimer Baker, president, in charge. After a splendid report of the year's work, given by the president and treasurer, the following officers were chosen: Mrs. A. A. Bassett, president; Mrs. J. L. McOmber, first vice-president; Mrs. Mortimer Baker, second vice-president; Mrs. F. B. Stoner, recording secretary; Mrs. F. S. Card, corresponding secretary; Mrs. B. O. Holbrook, treasurer; Mrs. Frank England, Mrs. B. B. Atwood and Mrs. Frances Eble, guild directors.

After the new president took the chair she announced that the social and dinner for the parish would be held in the guild hall on January 23. Mrs. F. S. Card was appointed to serve for another year as publicity secretary. At the close of the business session refreshments of tea and cake were served by Mesdames Card, Jenkins and Gallrath. The meeting was attended by thirty-four women.

MRS. CRAWFORD ENTERTAINS D. A. R.

Illness of Mrs. John Hyde Braly Confines Her to Her Home

Because of the illness of Mrs. John Hyde Braly, who is confined to her room though she is slowly recuperating, the regular meeting of the General Richard Gridley Chapter, D. A. R., of which she is regent, was held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. K. Crawford on North Cedar street, Mrs. C. W. Houston, vice regent, presiding.

Miss Ida Myers, a member of the chapter who has been appointed state chairman of thrift and conservation, made the talk of the afternoon, describing a recent visit to Terra Alta Chapter of Highland Park. In conformity with the recommendations of the national chairman of thrift and conservation, reinforced by Miss Myers, that chapters make a point of planting trees, the chapter visited has planted this year in the grounds of the Southwest Museum a memorial tree in honor of members who have passed to the great beyond.

The speaker also reported the Christmas party which the Glendale chapter had provided for the children of the Albion Street Day Nursery in Los Angeles and told of Americanization work carried on among the men in that settlement and the mothers' classes which she and Mrs. Crawford had recently visited. No tree planting has been done by the Richard Gridley Chapter but it is expected a tree will be set for each chapter member as soon as the location of the plantings can be determined.

An important letter from Mrs. Stockey, state regent, was read, also a review of achievements in Washington as set forth in the official D. A. R. magazine.

Seven applicants were received into membership, four by transfer and three by the presentation of papers, bringing the chapter enrollment close to its quota of fifty which will be its limit if it continues to meet at private homes. Mrs. Houston announced that because of the illness of Mrs. Braly at whose home the chapter has been entertained for years, meetings hereafter will be held at the homes of members in rotation.

BIBLE READINGS AT NAZARENE MISSION

The Bible readings that have been given this week at the Nazarene Mission have proved to be very helpful and instructive to all who have attended them. The speaker at these services was Rev. L. E. Swaney of Tujunga. Tonight, January 5, Rev. Joseph E. Bates, District Superintendent, will speak. Those who heard Rev. Bates on Tuesday night will want to hear him again tonight, and everyone is invited to come this evening.

CHRISTIAN CIRCLE CLUB HOLDS MEETING

The Christian Circle Club met last evening at the First Christian Church. The ladies from the First Presbyterian church served the supper. About forty-seven girls were present to enjoy the Bible lesson taught by Miss Soper, the leader of the club. Miss Florence Hamilton presided over the short business meeting. Next Thursday night will be Freshmen night and a great time is looked forward to by all.

COLLEGE GIRLS GET TOGETHER AT PARTY

Miss Mildred McKee, Miss Madelaine Love and Miss Esther Besant, students at the University of California, who have been spending their holiday vacation at home, were today guests at a luncheon given by a fellow student, Miss Mildred Roth at her home in Hollywood in honor of Miss Ina Hewton, a Canadian girl who has been spending the winter in Berkeley.

CHAPTER C J OF P. E. O. HOLDS ALL DAY MEETING

The members of Chapter CJ, P. E. O., held an all-day meeting on Thursday, January 4, at the home of Mrs. Annie Yard, 431 North Maryland avenue, with Mrs. Fannie Crampton as assisting hostess. At 10:30 o'clock a business session was held, Mrs. E. W. W. Hayward, vice-president, in charge. After the business was transacted the members engaged in sewing and piecing quilts for the needy. A delicious luncheon was served at noon by the hostesses.

In the afternoon the following program was given: Group of songs by Mrs. Isabel Kimball; readings from Riley's poems, by Mrs. Eva Barton; "My New Year's Resolution," given by each member of the chapter. Mrs. Ella Putnam, president of the chapter, and her husband, are spending several months visiting in Iowa.

ENTERTAINS AUCTION SCIENCE BRIDGE CLUB

Mrs. W. F. Macpherson of 464 Patterson avenue entertained the members of the Auction Science Bridge club with a bridge-luncheon party at her home Thursday. The club members present included Mrs. Cresney, Mrs. James W. Everington, Mrs. F. J. Rogers, Mrs. Meddick, Mrs. Heloise Bondaux, Mrs. Davis, Mrs. H. H. Powers, Mrs. Blake, Mrs. G. G. Blue, Mrs. D. E. Baxter, Mrs. A. M. Draper, Mrs. Charles Meadows, Miss Ann Morgan, Mrs. Moore, Mrs. E. E. East and the hostess. First prize was awarded to Mrs. Bondaux and second prize to Mrs. Moore.

LA CRESCENTA WOMEN'S CLUB TO DANCE

Plan New Series of Parties for the New Year

LA CRESCENTA, Jan. 5.—At the request of many of the younger set, the La Crescenta Woman's club will again resume their popular dancing parties of last year. These informal affairs will be given at the school auditorium, the second and fourth Saturdays of each month. The patrons will include Mrs. Seymour Thomas, Mrs. Charles Turck, Mrs. C. E. Culberson, Mrs. F. H. Anderson, Mrs. H. S. Bissell, Mrs. M. S. Collins, Mrs. S. B Young, Mrs. F. K. Czerniski, Mrs. H. R Tritt, Mrs. E. N. Nettleton, Miss Delia Bastable, Mrs. O. C. Miller, Mrs. J. C. Telfer, Mrs. B. Enockson, Mrs. T. S. Minford, Mrs. A. W. Brown and Mrs. M. Adams. The first dance will be given Saturday evening, January 13.

SEMI-MONTHLY CLUB IS ENTERTAINED

Members of the Semi-Monthly club were delightfully entertained Thursday afternoon by Mrs. Smith at her home, 731 South Glendale avenue. Five Hundred was played the prize which was a pair of embroidered pillow slips going to Miss Annabel Ruprecht. Following play a three-course luncheon was served by the hostess, whose home was attractively decorated in the Christmas colors.

MRS. F. A. KOONTZ ENTERTAINS AT LUNCHEON

Mrs. F. A. Koontz entertained Thursday with a charming luncheon the members of the Navajo Needlework club at her home, 450 West Vine street, covers being laid for Mesdames M. C. Fuller, Frank Overton, J. C. Waite, L. O. Carlisle, Mark Carlisle, J. D. Root, and the hostess. A pleasant afternoon over needlework followed the luncheon.

Mrs. H. H. Faries of 404 North Louise street at her regular at-home-day on Thursday entertained quite a party of friends with afternoon tea.

PURELY PERSONAL

Mrs. Edith Dockeray, of 723 South Louise street, who has been quite ill for the past two weeks, is recuperating and is now able to sit up.

Miss Ida Travis, of Long Beach, who has been the guest of Mrs. W. H. Barr, of Valley View road, left for her home on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Evarts, of 163 South Central, were New Year dinner guests in the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Evarts of Figueroa and Sixtieth street, Los Angeles, and also attended the Pasadena tournament of roses.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Eyerick have moved from 122 South Louise to a larger house at 116 South Louise, and believe they will like their new home very much.

Dr. Millicent Ross of St. Joseph, Mo., has for several weeks been the guest of her daughter, Mrs. W. A. McKenney at 318 North Maryland. She is an osteopathic physician and may decide to locate here.

J. H. Alford, who has been living on Vine street, went to Oakland last Saturday, having been transferred to that point by the telephone company, for which he has been working for several years past. Mrs. Alford and the two sons join him there today. Franklin, the elder son, has been one of the faithful carriers of the Daily Press for a year or more.

Mrs. Charles Chamberlin of 247 West Dryden street has returned from a motor trip to San Francisco and the northern part of the state with her father-in-law and mother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Chamberlin of San Diego, during which she visited her brother, Major Oliver, at San Mateo.

R. T. W. CLASS HOLDS MEETING AT BENTLEY HOME

The postponed meeting of the R. T. W. class of the First Baptist church will be held at the home of Mrs. Roger Bentley, 715 North Central avenue, on Tuesday, January 9, at 2:30 o'clock. Election of officers and other important business will be taken up.

Scrim for Pantry Shelves

Even such a prosaic room as the pantry may be given a gay look by strips of scrim embroidered in red or blue or yellow, which are tacked along the edges of the shelves.

LA CRESCENTA ASSOCIATION TO MEET

Improvement Folks Are Called to Meet at School on Jan. 4

LA CRESCENTA, Jan. 5.—The first meeting of the year of the La Crescenta Improvement Association was held at the school auditorium Thursday evening, January 4, C. E. Culberson, the newly elected president, presiding. This was a particularly interesting meeting as all committees for the coming year were appointed and the many improvements planned for the valley discussed.

W. C. T. U. WILL WELCOME NEW MEMBERS

The city W. C. T. U., which has an enrollment of 160 to 170 members, and which has added a good many to its roster the past few months, is giving a reception to new members this afternoon from 2 to 4 at the home of Mrs. Rowe, 216 South Orange street. The speaker of the afternoon will be Mrs. Hester Miller, who organized the union about 18 years ago, and the meeting will be of exceptional interest in many ways apart from its social features.

LITTLE FOLKS PARTY AT THE RADCLIFFE HOME

Edward M. Radcliffe, Jr., was the guest of honor at a party given at his home, 405 West Doran, Thursday afternoon, in celebration of his sixth birthday, at which ten of his little playmates were entertained with a program of games, followed by party refreshments of cake, ice cream and candy, at a very prettily appointed table, centered with red carnations. Each guest brought a toy for the young host and the children had a very happy afternoon.

Dr. E. A. Archer, of Pullman, Wash., is here to see his brother, C. S. Archer of East Elk avenue, who has been ill for some time, and his daughter, Mrs. Bennett.

CONCERT AT JONES HOME WAS TRIBUTE

It will be of interest to many Glendalians who attended the reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mattison B. Jones Wednesday evening to know that the program was a surprise which officers of the Glendale Music club, of which Mrs. Jones is president, asked the privilege of contributing as a tribute and in appreciation of the work for the club which Mrs. Jones has done.

The pianist, Colin Campbell, who is heralded as the rival of Josef Hofmann, was secured by Mayor Robinson, whose friend he is. Mr. Behymer and other musical critics were more than enthusiastic over the artistry of all the numbers and were especially delighted with Nevin Quartet, with the harp and piano accompaniment by Mrs. Enona Hopkins and Miss Gertrude Champlain. Mr. Behymer said it demonstrated that Glendale leads in music as well as in floral parades.

ODD FELLOWS PRACTICE WORK

The meeting of Odd Fellows' lodge Thursday night was devoted to practice work by the installation team led by Dr. H. C. Smith who is the district deputy grand master and who has selected his team from the Glendale lodge. Tonight they will install officers at Van Nuys and Saturday night at Lancaster.

January 16 the lodge will join with Carnation Rebekahs in a public installation to which all Glendale will be invited.

READY TO GO!

Today, Friday, January 5th, we will be ready to show you "The STARS." Not "stars" of the movies, or "stars" of the stellar world, but "STARS" of the practical, everyday world of common folks.

A fitting home has been provided for the Star Motors at 115 W. Harvard (formerly Oakland Agency location), and a full line of these handsome, sturdy cars will be on display.

Come in and examine the chassis and see how thoroughly the units are built together.

See how accessible is every part and how easily removed for repairs when necessary.

And the price ($558.75 here) is the most remarkable thing about the car. We are constantly asked, how can we give so much for the dollar?
Sold on easy terms. Come in and get acquainted.

RUSSIAN GIRLS STUDY HERE

Miss N. A. Balakshina and Miss N. J. Froloff have come to the United States from Harbin, Manchuria, to learn how to be farmers. After they have learned, at Washington State College, Pullman, they expect to return to Siberia and use their knowledge to help Russians who are now struggling almost with bare hands to produce crops.
Young and pretty, the two girls see nothing unusual in their desire to study agriculture. Miss Balakshina is the daughter of Andrew Balakshina, president of the Siberian Agricultural corporation, which is attempting to put Siberian farmers on their feet.
Father A. Viacheslovoff, pries in the Russian Greek Orthodox church here, where the girls ar staying with 17 other members o the party with which they arrive on the Kaka Maru, speaks of An drew Balakshina as one of the bes beloved men in Siberia today.
The daughter of this man wi make a thorough study of subject that she thinks applicable to th Siberian problem. Her companio is the sister of Serge F. Froloff, student in the University of Wash ington.

MINIMUM WAGE FOR WOMEN IS DISCUSSED

Value of Organization to Working People Is Also Presented

A talk on "The Minimum Wage for Women" was given at the meeting of the Women's Union Label League No. 400, held Thursday afternoon at Odd Fellows Hall, by Mrs. Noel. Mrs. J. D. Hail, president, was in charge. "The Value of Organization to the Working People" was the topic of the talk given by Mr. Schultz of the electrical workers. Mrs. Mellinger of the Tailors' Union, spoke on the conditions of the working women and the necessity of purchasing garments with the label to better conditions among the workers. Another talk was also given by Mrs. Sylvester of Seattle, who told of the harmony among the affiliated crafts and the opportunity for women in doing their bit to help the working class.

After a social half hour refreshments were served. All were invited to attend a meeting at the Labor Temple, 540 Maple avenue, Los Angeles, next Monday afternoon.

Guests present included Mrs. Charles Temple, Mrs. A. S. Chase, Mrs. Charles Guthrie, Mrs. Josephine Brant and Mrs. C. R. Hallett.

BASKETBALL WEDNESDAY

Captain Wheelon of the local basketball team of the American Legian states that a return game with Pomona has been scheduled to take place Wednesday night at 8:15 o'clock in Glendale high school gymnasium. The Glendale team was defeated at Pomona several weeks ago, but has strengthened its ranks and added new material since that time and are looking forward to playing a winning game next week.

PHENOMENAL STAR CARS TO PARADE HERE SATURDAY

Watch for the Star parade, Saturday.

Dilley & Armstrong, 115 West Harvard street, Star agents for Glendale and vicinity, are planning a grand Star parade for Glendale some time Saturday. The people of Glendale should be on the watch for this parade, as it will be the first time the Star has ever appeared in public in this city.

"This parade will be the formal introduction of the Star to the motorists and prospective motorists of Glendale," said the local agents this morning.

AUCTION SALE OF TUESDAY CLUB PLANS

Thursday afternoon the auction sale committee of the Tuesday Afternoon Club met at the home of Mrs. A. H. Montgomery and perfected as far as possible arrangements for the rummage sale which they will give in the new Jensen building being completed on North Brand, the week of January 22, the same night that the new druggist, who is to be a tenant, has his opening. The sale will be given there through the courtesy of the owner, Robert Jensen. No admission will be charged and every patron will receive a ticket on a turkey and a goose.

The old clothes sales table will be in charge of Mrs. Pierson Hanning; furniture, Mrs. Ray J. Phillips; crockery, Mrs. W. H. Boothby; canned fruit and groceries, Mrs. Albert Perry; books and pictures, Mrs. S. H. Waller; musical instruments, Mrs. Peter Dederich; millinery, Mrs. C. L. Vierick; fancy work and miscellaneous articles, Mrs. H. A. McPherson; toys, Mrs. R. K. Snow; shoes, Mrs. E. D. Cleophas.

Take-Outs of Partner's Bid

When a player bids and his partner overbids, without any intervening bid, such overbid is called a "take-out." A take-out may be a bid either in denial of or to better partner's bid. The bid which most often is overbid by partner is the original bid of one No Trump. Such a bid is really a statement to partner that the original bidder has two quick tricks in his hand, distributed among at least three suits, and tells partner to use that information to arrive at the best bid of the combined hands.

There are six well defined types of hands with which the partner of an original No Trump bidder (either first or second hand) should "take out" the No Trump bidder with a bid of his own. The following represent the six types: (presuming dealer to have bid one No Trump and second hand to have passed).

First, with any major suit (Hearts or Spades) as good as an original bid. For example:

Hearts — A, K, 7, 6, 2
Clubs — 4, 3, 2
Diamonds — J, 10, 7
Spades — 7, 6

Third hand should bid two Hearts.

Hearts — 7, 6, 2
Clubs — 10, 8, 7
Diamonds — A,
Spades — K, Q, [illegible], 2

Third hand should bid two Spades.

Second, with a singleton or void suit, third hand should bid any major suit as strong as a defensive bid; that is, with a hand that contains at least one and one-half quick tricks, at least one-half trick of which is in the suit. For example:

Hearts — Q, J, 7, 4, 2
Clubs — 7
Diamonds — J, 10, 7, 6
Spades — A, 4, 2

Third hand should bid two Hearts.

Hearts — 10, 8, 7, 4
Clubs —
Diamonds — 9, 8, 7, 6
Spades — A, Q, 10, 7, 4

Third hand should bid two Spades.

Third, with any six card or longer major suit, irrespective of the strength of suit or hand. For example:

Hearts — Q, 8, 7, 6, 4, 2
Clubs — 8, 7
Diamonds — J, 4, 3
Spades — 10, 8

Third hand should bid two Hearts.

Hearts — 7, 4, 2
Clubs — A, 2
Diamonds — 10, 7
Spades — 9, 8, 7, 6, 4, 2

Third hand should bid two Spades.

Fourth, with any two five card suits, one of which is a major, bid the major suit irrespective of strength held in suit or hand. For example:

Hearts — 10, 9, 7, 4, 2
Clubs — A, K, 7, 4, 2
Diamonds — 7, 2
Spades — 4

Third hand should bid two Hearts.

Hearts — 8, 4
Clubs — 7
Diamonds — 10, 7, 6, 4, 2
Spades — J, 7, 5, 3, 2

Third hand should bid two Spades.

Fifth, with any very strong minor suit, containing the high cards and at least seven in the suit. For example:

Hearts — 10, 7
Clubs — A, K, Q, 9, 8, 7, 2
Diamonds — A, 4
Spades — 10, 7

Third hand should bid two Clubs. There is a better chance for game with the suit than with the No Trump bid.

Hearts — 10
Clubs — 7, 4, 2
Diamonds — A, K, J, 10, 7, 4, 3, 2
Spades — 9

Third hand should bid two Diamonds.

Sixth, with any two five card minor suits, bid the stronger of the two, unless of fairly equal strength; if so, bid the one of higher value—that is, prefer Diamonds to Clubs.

Hearts — 7
Clubs — A, 7, 6, 4, 2
Diamonds — K, J, 10, 3, 2
Spades — 10, 8

Third hand should bid two Diamonds and if overbid either by partner or opponents, should show the Clubs.

The obligation to take out partner's original No Trump when holding a hand that contains two five card suits is obligatory and should be followed very closely. The reasons for so doing will be discussed in detail in the article on "Two-Suit Hands."

It should be noted that the minor suit take-out from weakness of partner's No Trump is not recommended. Such hands are very rare and it is better practice for the novice, at least, to allow the No Trump bid to stand.

There are various other "take-outs" over a suit bid by partner. These, as a rule, are of two classes: first, those in denial of partner's suit; second, those to improve partner's bid, that is, to make a bid that will improve the chances of the partnership for game. These two classes have been discussed in detail in the preceding article under the heading "Overbidding of Partner's Bid".

'DITCH DAY' IS CELEBRATED AT HIGH

Today members of the mid-year graduating class will have their annual frolic or "ditch day." There are about forty in the class and accompanied by their class teachers, George Lockwood and Miss Iva Hunter, they will motor to the Alhambra skating rink for a good time on rollers, and will have a picnic supper. It will be a little variation from going to Brookside and it is superfluous to prohpesy a good time for all concerned.

SHRINE CLUB TO ELECT OFFICERS WEDNESDAY

Election of officers will feature the festivities of the Shrine club on Wednesday night.

After the election, dinner will be served and the club will attend some theater in a body.

The candidates will be nominated at the meeting. Thus far, none have been announced.

BILLBOARD TAX PROPOSED BY DAVIS

Would Charge $1 Per Square Foot in City and Building Fee

An ordinance was introduced by Councilman Davis at the council meeting Thursday night which will place a tax of $1 per square foot per year on billboards within the city of Glendale. In addition to this the ordinance will call for a building permit costing $2 being taken out for each board erected.

This ordinance was declared read for the first time and laid over until the next regular meeting.

RALLY FOR STYLUS

Next Tuesday there will be an assembly at Glendale high and a rally for the Stylus or school annual. Information will be given out in regard to what it will contain, the price and the discounts to those who order in advance.

PEACE OR WAR RESTS ON FRANCE

Fate of American Proposals for German Reparations Awaits Issue

BY A. L. BRADFORD

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—The fate of the American proposal for a commission or conference of experts to recommend a German reparations figure now rests squarely with France.

The proposal of the United States is before the French government and this country is waiting for a reply as to whether the plan is acceptable to France, it was declared universally at the state department today.

FRANCE MOBILIZES FORCES ON RHINE

PARIS, Jan. 5.—France mobilized her Rhine forces today, recalling all troops on leave from Mayence barracks. France today planned conferences with Belgium and Italy, looking to a possible joint move to collect reparations from Germany.

Premier Poincare conferred twice last night and again this morning with General Maginot regarding Marshal Foch's plan for eventual military action against Germany to collect and guarantee reparation payments.

MAY WITHDRAW TROOPS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—The American troops on the Rhine may be withdrawn in the near future, Secretary of War Weeks declared today after the meeting of President Harding and his cabinet, at which the precarious European situation brought about by the collapse of the premiers' conference in Paris was discussed.

HIGH GRADUATIONS TO BE HELD ON FEB. 1

Announcement has been made that the commencement exercises of the mid-year graduates at Glendale High will be held Thursday evening, February 1, and their class day exercises the Tuesday evening previous. The speaker for the commencement has not yet been selected but the class day program has been outlined in a general way and will consist of orchestra numbers, musical solos by members of the class, a playlet, written by Coach Brewster of the dramatic section, which will picture a pilgrimage through high school.

The class will have a paid assembly next week Thursday morning at which the program will be furnished by Miss Freda Peycke, who will give some of her charming pianologues. It will be a double assembly, the first one coming at 9:30 and a few seats will be reserved for the public at 25c each. The proceeds of the assemblies, which it is hoped will reach $100, will be expended for the class memorial.

Crepe de Chine Frocks

Unusually beautiful in coloring and smart in line are frocks of crepe de chine hand-made and ornamented with batik designs that are distinct in outline and exquisite in color. In some instances the designs are reproduced from old Coptic motifs, and the shades and combinations of color are decidedly Egyptian.

Ribboned Flowers

The flowers made of ribbon are quite different this year from other years, but they are very beautiful and most effective on the new gowns. In one charming display of girdle ornaments, all made of ribbon in soft shades, the flowers are made very flat, and are placed close together in masses.

GEN. PERSHING DOFFS UNIFORM FOR EVENING CLOTHES AND IS GUEST OF CHICAGO SOCIETY

SAN FERNANDO IS LIGHTING UP RAPIDLY

Work on the installation of the ornamental lighting system on San Fernando road, from Los Feliz road to Pacific avenue, will start within a few days, according to L. H. Wilson.

The contractor, H. H. Walker, according to Mr. Wilson, stated yesterday that he had been held up on account of the non-arrival of the conduit. After the work has been started it will be completed in about thirty days, says Mr. Wilson.

Honesty is the best policy, but too many people fail to keep the premiums paid up.

CO-OPERATION SUCCEEDS IN WISCONSIN

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 5.—Wisconsin farmers are solving their marketing problems through one of the largest systems of cooperative associations in the country.

The middleman is beginning to take the count. An annual business of $60,000,000 a year, done through cooperatives, which are operating successfully in 14 different branches to farm activities, is knocking him for successive rows of goals.

Success of the Badger cooperatives is due in a large degree to the facts that the organizations have been evolved through long development and with some state aid and supervision, and to the fact that many of the farmers of the state are of Scandinavian descent, according to Prof. B. H. Hibbard of the agricultural economic department of the University of Wisconsin.

The Scandinavians' successes are due to long experience in their mother countries, where agricultural cooperatives are a matter of governmental policy.

About 800 of the 2,000 cheese factories that make up the manufacturing end of the industry in which Wisconsin produces three-fourths of the nation's supply of cheese are cooperative, it is estimated.

More than 600 cooperative livestock shipping associations are in operation at present, the first one in the United States having been started at Ellsworth, Wis., in 1908.

Of the 835 creameries, 380 are cooperative.

Cooperative mercantile stores have been least successful in the state, 17 out of 57 started having "failed in business."

Other branches of cooperative activity in the state are 98 feed, elevator and produce companies; 27 potato shipping organizations; 122 community breeders' associations; 214 mutual insurance companies; about 480 mutual telephone companies; six tobacco marketing organizations, and six fruit exchanges.

Most of the successful cooperatives started in small enterprises, devoted to handling of essentials, and developed under efficient handling.

AND THE FEUD CONTINUES

By JOHN BRECK

The day was hot, as a day can only be in an inland valley in California. It was hot with a stifling, stewing heat, which even the desert never knows. It was so hot that the very snakes hid under the baked earth. The cattle huddled together, each seeking to get its head in the shade of its neighbor's side without spurring it with a restless horn. A squirrel hung head and paws out of a knothole in an oak and sniffed in vain for a breeze. The only other things in sight were the turkey buzzards, drifting in listless circles overhead—and the crows.

Black, according to the heat experts, is the very poorest of hot weather wear. Why, then, were these natives clad in it? Did the iridescence if their feathers disperse the rays? Or is it one of the disabilities which go with the scavenger's calling? Did they commit themselves to their uniform black in the beginning of buzzards and crows and now find it too late to change? For they were plainly suffering. Every reluctant beat of a buzzard's wing was a protest. And the saturnine band of crows which waded through the new-cut stubble on the shady slope of a hill went with beaks half open, wings a-droop. Each pounce after a grasshopper ended in a panting interval of exhaustion.

One was worse off than the rest—his steering feathers were completely missing. With such a handicap the nimble grasshopper was too much for him. He was fain to walk the ties of a railway which paralleled the road, searching for refuse from the passing diners, as the gulls haunt the wake of a ship at sea. Of a sudden the languid stillness was broken by shrieks of rage. A kingbird had pounced upon the crippled privateer and begun plucking the feathers from his sunburned shoulders whenever he could stop jeering and cursing long enough to clamp his bill on one. The poor victim dodged with the desperate agility of a Long John Silver to regain the shelter of the flock.

They were close enough for me to note how the little flycatcher has not only hawk temper and hawk tactics, but that he affects a hawk band across the end of his tail, and hawk-cut feathers in the tips of his wings. Was it also a hawk-like affectation which made him build his nest out in plain view on the top of a fence-post? Well, then, if it proved too much of a temptation to a bird of such easy honesty as that crippled crow, he had only himself to blame.

But was that nest the storm center, after all? For I passed that way again when the crimson leaves of the ivy were beginning to fall. A smell of frost was in the air, and the crows were combing the moist earth for wire-worms after the first rain. Time for kingbirds to be gone. A small party of them were discussing their route on a fence-wire. A crow flew past, and three of them adjourned the meeting to attend to him. So the feud continues. Will time, I wonder, ever call a truce, or will I catch them at it again next spring?

MOIST BREAD

Fresh bread is so moist that it makes a good growing place for mold, says the office of home economics of the department of agriculture. To avoid this, scald the bread box at least once a week and do not shut it up air tight when it is filled with fresh bread.

AIDS TO PRACTICALITY

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc.

(Copyright, 1923, by The Associated Newspapers)

Nicolle says:

"The practical sense is the source of all progress, of every step forward toward the unknown, of all light, of all beauty, of all activity.

"The practical sense is the genial ferryman, who will row you over to the fortunate shore of happiness. Without it your life will be no more than a long sleep peopled with evil dreams, and you will go on until you die without once opening your eyes."

This, perhaps, is over-laudatory of practicality. And indeed I know—you yourself must know—extremely impractical folk who are by no means unhappy. Nor does their impracticality mean that they are altogether blind to the realities of life. On the contrary, they see some realities far more clearly than do many famed for their practicality.

Nevertheless, it would help even these choice spirits—the dreamers, not of evil dreams, but of fine ones—to be a bit more practical than they are. And for everyday life practicality is truly indispensable.

How to become practical if one is not so? That is a difficult problem, yet not beyond solution.

One aid in solving it—and an invaluable one—is to conquer all inclination to act on impulse. Such inclination is the chief defect of the impractical as a class.

They do not stop to reason things out, to look at pros and cons, to ponder the feasibility of whatever they have in mind to do.

Seemingly they think that merely to conceive some course of action is sufficient justification for pursuing it. Which is one of the chief reasons they continually come to grief in business and other undertakings, and are held up to derision as "foolish visionaries."

Besides accustoming one's self to weigh possible consequences of projected acts, practicality demands also thoughtful consideration of one's past experiences. And, indeed, unless one makes one's self an attentive pupil in the great school of experience the foresight enabling one to judge whether this or that act is feasible can hardly be attained.

Necessary, too, is the gaining, in as large a measure as possible, of control over one's feelings in general.

The emotionally uncontrolled not merely tend to an impractical impulsiveness. The storms of emotion which continually sweep through them cause them to see facts in a distorted way, clouding their judgment and thus deceiving them into conclusions which may be the reverse of sound.

"An angry man," as the proverb tersely puts it, "cannot see straight." As with anger, so with the other emotions. To give them free rein is to yield all hope of winning a place among the effectively practical, the sensibly efficient, the success-winners.

Listening in on Eve

HIS TERRIBLE NIGHT

"Women are queer!" said the man in the fur overcoat. "There's my wife giving me the entire blame for her having had an attack of hysterics. I feel as if I needed a little sympathy myself. But do I get it? Never!"

"What do you want of sympathy?" retorted the man in the soft gray hat. "Have you been indulging in hysterics, too?"

"I had reason enough. And it was all Elsie's fault. I tell you when that man jumped out from behind the tree and pulled his gun on me I thought I was gone for sure."

"Things must have gone rather far in your family if your wife has to hire a gunman to keep you in order. What's the answer, Charlie?"

"It's no joking matter," said the man in the fur overcoat. "It all began with being afraid to stay alone in the house. I had to be away two nights and she told me she was going to sleep at her mother's."

"Yes, yes—go on."

"So, of course, when I came home twelve hours earlier than we thought I could, I expected to find the house locked up; but I didn't expect to find the storm door hooked on the inside.

"I got home about 1 o'clock in the morning, dead tired. I tried the windows and they were locked, basement and all. I saw our bedroom window was open and figured that Elsie must have forgotten it when she went to her mother's, but I'm no porch climber. I prowled around for a few minutes and then I had a bright idea.

"I unfastened the screw fasteners that held the panel of four glass panes in the storm door. Then I removed the panel and reached through and attempted to life the hook. It took me quite a little while, because I had to keep lighting matches to see by, and they blew out as fast as I lit them. My hands were cold, too. I tell you I was peeved. Finally, I got it unhooked and found my latch key. Even then the darn door wouldn't open. It was bolted on the inside."

"Somebody must have been in there," deduced the man in the soft gray hat, brilliantly.

"Somebody was Elsie. But, you see, I thought she was at her mother's, where she told me she was going to be. It never occurred to me she'd decided to stay at home after all and was upstairs having a fit because she thought a burglar was trying to break into the house."

"What did you think?"

"I was too tired to figure it out. I thought I couldn't get in and let it go at that. I'd about decided to spend the night on the porch, when I remembered the open bedroom window and the ladder in the garage and went to get it. I was on the way back to the house when this bird jumped out from in back of that big oak in the front yard and shoved his gun at me.

"He said, 'What are you doing here?' And I said, 'Trying to get into my own house. What are you doing here?' And he said, 'Why, it's Charley!' And I said, 'Frank Kelly, drop that gun before it goes off and explain yourself.'

"Then he told me that Elsie had telephoned him that there was a burglar on the front porch and he'd looked out of his window—he lives across the street from us, you know—and seen me lighting matches and cutting the screen. So he dressed and came over. Neighborly of him, but I was glad he spoke before he potted me. We had a little laugh over it and he went home."

"And then your wife had hysterics?"

"Well, no. Not just then. I was wide enough awake by that time for anything and I figured I'd play a little joke on her. So I went ahead with the ladder and climbed in the bedroom window as I'd planned. She was way over at the back of the bed with the spread drawn clear up over her head and I just walked across the room and grabbed her by the shoulder. That was all. Didn't say a thing. But Elsie never could take a joke. I had to call the doctor. First and last I had a tough night of it. Women are queer."

'CONVENTION' ON FOOTBALL FIELD DISCUSSED

BY JACKSON V. SCHOLZ.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—There seems to be a rather wide difference of opinion among the football coaches of the country concerning the "convention" system of giving signals before the play starts. This was brought out at the recent meeting of the football coaches' association, where the makers of the sport from all parts of the country had an opportunity to discuss just such points.

The "convention" system consists in gathering of the players behind the line of scrimmage before each formation, in which they form a tight group with their heads together and the quarterback gives the signals. Such a practice is claimed by some to hold up the game while other coaches claim that it speeds things up. It would seem to depend upon how the players were coached and whether the "convention" was used as a pow wow or merely to give the signals.

Major Cavanaugh of Boston College and Robert Zuppke of Illinois took opposite sides of the question at the meeting. Cavanaugh claimed that in his experience of watching games where the "ring around the rosie" system was used, a great deal of time was wasted and the spectators became impatient. Zuppke asserted, on the other hand, that he had timed this system as well as the old one and had found that by actual seconds the "convention" was a time saver.

Fielding Yost of Michigan, who is one of the staunch backers of the new idea, claimed that much more time was lost by a team which called the signals on the line of scrimmage because of the fact that the signals quite often had to be repeated and that after they were called the players then had to shift to positions called for in the signals.

Persons who are bothered by bores in trains and on boats are recommended to try the following method of squelching unsought conversation. A student traveling in England and wishing to make up for lost time by reading was very much annoyed by the man opposite, who insisted on keeping the conversation afloat. He was determined to exhaust every possibility offered by the weather. "The grass is very green, isn't it?" inquired the would-be conversationalist cheerfully. "Yes," said the student savagely; "such a change from the red and blue grass we've been having lately."

LITTLE TALKS ON THRIFT

By S. W. STRAUS, President American Society for Thrift.

ONE of the values of thrift lies in the fact that under prudent care your dollars, as you add to them one by one, become your constant co-workers. And no matter what else may happen they will keep on working for you day and night as long as you allow them to do so.

S. W. STRAUS

Co-operate with your dollars.

A squandered dollar is lost and gone forever. Whatever of value it may have possessed for its owner has ceased for all time.

Saving a dollar constitutes merely the beginning of a helpful process. Enthusiasm for thrift is aroused which makes it doubly easy to save the second, and so the good work continues until, in less time often than had been considered possible, a substantial sum has been accumulated.

If you are among those who unfortunately have never become a saver of money do not feel that the start is not worth while, because the amount of your first saving must perhaps be a very limited sum. No matter how slow your progress may seem at first and how many of the so-called pleasures of the world you appear to be giving up through self-denial, you will find that in the end the pathway of thrift leads to success.

Save that first dollar. Put it to work for you. Not next week or next year, but now.

I Live Right Here in Glendale, Folks

—And if I didn't believe from the bottom of my heart that Bemco No. 1 was a sure winner I wouldn't back it with my own money or urge my friends and neighbors to come in with me.

—In the first place, the location of BEMCO No. 1, lies as pretty as any lease on Signal Hill—California's greatest oil field—and the big producers on all sides assure that we'll hit the real thing in oil sands—all we have to do is to go after the oil in the right way.

—And, folks—there's where we have fully protected your every interest. First, we have built the strongest, staunchest derrick in the whole field; we are putting in the best machinery money can buy, and as for the driller, we have signed a $100,000 Turnkey contract with the famous Jack McKeon, who brings in the "Big Ones," and that drilling contract is protected by a $50,000 bond on Mr. McKeon's part to guarantee a perfect hole to the depth of 4,500 feet without a cent's extra expense.

—And, did we tell you about our capitalization? It's only for $125,000 divided into 1250 units of $100 each, which means that an ordinary 2000-barrel well will pay $292 on every $100 you invest in BEMCO No. 1 the first year, figuring the oil at the low price of $1.00 per barrel.

—The rig is completed. We're rearin' to go. You'll sure get action on every dollar you lay down with us on BEMCO No. 1, as we are bound to make a killing.

—Give yourself a chance to WIN WITH US. At least LOOK at our proposition. It won't cost you a penny—it won't put you under the slightest obligation. See the lease at our expense on the corner of Center and Pasadena avenue, just two blocks east of American avenue. Just phone Glendale 408 between 8:30 a. m. and 5 p. m. or Glendale 677-R evenings, and we will call and give you auto ride free to our lease.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

When Back Hurts Flush Your Kidneys as You Clean Your Bowels

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.—Adv.

Truths in Epigram

Our safety is in having high ideals, and in constant labor to secure their realization. — Joseph Parker.

There is nothing innocent or good that dies and is forgotten; let us hold to that faith or none.—Charles Dickens.

Beauty is but a vain and doubtful good, a shining gloss, that fadeth suddenly.—Shakespeare.

THE DELAYED TRIAL

Mrs. Maybelle Roe, twice tried for murder, and once convicted, asks that her third trial be delayed. It may be that there are good reasons for the request. Nobody desires to do any defendant an injustice. The public remembers, however, that the chief anxiety of every individual about to be tried for murder, is to have the trial postponed as long as possible. It is the theory of the criminal lawyer that the greater the period between commission of a crime and the trial of the accused, the better the chances of acquittal or of disagreement. That this is a correct theory is proved abundantly by the records. When the public has lost interest in a crime, because of a succession of others perhaps equally startling; when the witnesses have scattered, and may not all be found, in many instances there would be a saving of time and money, by sponging the case from the docket.

The crime of which this woman is accused was committed so long ago that even the habitual readers of criminal news probably would be at loss to name the alleged victim, or any of the circumstances attending the killing. The chances now are that the case cannot be tried on its merits, for there will be great difficulty in marshalling facts that at one time were accessible enough to form the basis of judgment.

Persons accused of crimes are entitled to speedy trial. They do not get it, often because they evade it by every legal trick and device the lawyer has at command. But the public also has rights in the premises. The latter as a rule do not count for much.

THE HOMICIDAL SPEEDER

Consider the case of the speeder down in Texas whose criminal conduct caused at least two deaths. He was not worse in intent, probably, than many another of his class who goes at the utmost limit of which the machine he drives is capable. Most of them could not go eighty miles an hour, which is the rate that this offender admits.

On a public highway, under no pressure of necessity, not seeking a prize, but simply making himself a peril to human life, this fellow was moving at eighty miles an hour. He saw ahead of him a woman with a child. Rather than strike them, he says, he deliberately swerved and crashed into a heavy truck. On this vehicle were a number of people, two of whom were instantly killed, and four injured. Unfortunately the driver escaped immediate penalty. If there is law in Texas, a penalty awaits him.

It is probable that in the emergency the driver used no judgment, but that matters eventuated according to his reckless conduct. He got into a bad place from which there seemed no hope of escape. Now he attempts to explain the outcome as representing his deliberate choice of evils. Even if this is true, it fails to make out any case for the defense. A driver who does not know better than to move along the highway as a swift pestilence, is not the sort to elect whom he shall kill or permit to escape. To save the lives of two at the risk of destroying the lives of half a dozen may be regarded by this driver as a fine bit of heroics. It will be regarded by the public as homicide, in which the choosing of one set of victims rather than another, was no indication either of virtue or intelligence.

Crimes of this wanton type probably will continue until juries get into the mood to regard them as murder, and treat the perpetrators as deserving the severest punishment.

ANTI-PROHIBITION DOCTRINES

"Insurance companies tell you," says an editor, "that their business is less safe than it was, by reason of excessive drinking."

To whom do they tell this? Perhaps they poured it into the sympathetic ear of the editor in question. They hardly could have a purpose in making such a statement to the public, for the public would not believe it.

Doubtless there is a class that drinks more than ever. It is not the "prosperous" class in the sense the editorial assertion was meant to convey, for the individuals comprising this class find their routine seriously disturbed. Possibly the very rich, maintaining their own cellars, and shrewd enough to lay in a stock ahead of prohibition, drink much in the manner of old. They have no occasion to drink more. Rather, they are likely to be restrained by the thought that some time their supply will be exhausted, and cannot be replenished.

The persons who drink more than formerly are the young and thoughtless who conceive their defiance to be smart. Some of them are in danger of being ruined, but most of them will recover, and with their maturity, put aside this particular folly of youth along with other abandoned habits.

As to the drinkers of wood alcohol, they belong to social strata that bear small relation to the insurance business. They are non-intelligent, manifestly so. They are not people of affairs, or of latent capacity for affairs, but the failures in life. It is their type that, prohibition or no, crowds the bull-pen of every city jail with drunks, drug-addicts and the petty sort of criminal.

When an editor seeks to deprecate the effects of prohibition, and declines to stick to facts, his conclusions cannot be accepted. They seem to have been inspired, and for the source of the inspiration there is scant respect.

THIRTY YEARS OF PEACE

Germany made a tentative proposal for thirty years of peace. To establish such period of tranquility, all the great powers would have to enter into a compact. The proposal does not receive serious consideration. In this attitude towards it there is no occasion for surprise. In the circumstances it is not unnatural for France, for instance, to doubt the good faith of the proffer. Another view that may be taken, not unreasonably, is that France does not desire thirty years of peace that would pass without giving scope to the spirit of vengeance and the lust for acquisition. It is possible that the ambitions of France rise superior to its desire for peace; that it desires a peace marked only by its own domination of Europe. For this it is not ready, the conquest lying in the future.

If Europe were to enter into an agreement for thirty years, and abide fully by its terms, it is reasonable to suppose that the same understanding might be continued indefintely. Thirty years of unbroken peace would demonstrate clearly the possibility of 300 years of it. The span might be made indefinite, if only the nations were to drop their hatreds, abandon the policy of aggrandizement and greed, and, each still devoted to its own sovereignty, treat its neighbors as two honest individuals treat each other.

A San Francisco man, blinded, and in a state of physical collapse from drinking wood alcohol, admitted when taken in charge, that he had drunk from five to eight half-pints of denatured alcohol daily for a week. It goes without saying that the human being capable of such folly is a social unit of small consequence.

Men and Women and Clothes

By DR. FRANK CRANE

There is a profound difference between the female clothes sense and that of the male.

To speak in psychological lingo, the clothes complex of the woman is entirely different from that of the man.

Dr. Frank Crane

Succiently stated thatd ifference may be said to be this: that the desire of the man is to be unconscious of his clothes and the desire of the woman is to be conscious of her clothes.

In other words the man is best contented when he never thinks of what he is wearing, and the woman when she is actually aware of what she has on.

The man does not care, the woman does care. And that is the difference.

That is the underlying difference why styles in women's clothes change so often. They change because just as soon as women get used to one style they lose the feeling of it and want another, and a new one.

When a man says that one should dress sensibly he does not mean at all the same thing which a woman means when she uses the same terms. The man means that he does not want to wear clothes that bother him and make him think of them. The woman means that she wants to wear clothes that do make her think of them.

Hence the general style in women's clothes changes radically about once in a generation, sometimes oftener. Looking at old prints we see that at one period women wore immense hoops so that their dress was tightly contracted at the waist and expanded to an enormous circle at the foot. After that came those curious contraptions known as tilters, which were a kind of wire basket which pushed the skirt out behind but left it close fitting in front.

From being expanded like a balloon the skirt afterwards was contracted to fit like a sausage skin, so that walking was very difficult and sitting down was an acrobatic feat.

Then came those amazing things called bustles; and sleeves were enormously puffed up at the shoulders and were alternately in time close fitting at the wrist and loose flowing.

Every once in a while there is a so-called reform in woman's dress. She discards her corsets and wears loose fitting garments and everybody thinks that woman is about to emancipate herself from the tyranny of fashion.

But, alas, it is a delusion. All that it means to woman is change. And the pendulum of style has swung backward and forward since the fig leaves of Eden.

Each generation looks with amazement at the styles of the preceding.

"Do you think," says a recent writer quoting the Boulevardier, "that Josephine and her ladies in their charmingly simple frocks of the First Empire did not laugh themselves to tears over the old fashioned plates of the eighteenth century with their seemingly impossible hoops and farthingales? But none the less the very next generation produced the even more ridiculous crinoline and that strange deformity the bustle."

The truth is that any sort of style is welcome to a woman, even the physical discomfort of tight lacing or the nuisance of a long train, provided that it is a sensation of novelty.

Songs of the Poets

A Hundred Years to Come—By William Goldsmith Brown (1812-1906)

Oh, where will be the birds that sing,
A hundred years to come?
The flowers that now in beauty spring,
A hundred years to come?
The rosy lip, the lofty brow,
The heart that beats so gaily now—
Oh, where will be love's beaming eye,
Joy's pleasant smile, and sorrow's sigh,
A hundred years to come?

Who'll press for gold this crowded street,
A hundred years to come?
Who'll tread yon church with willing feet,
A hundred years to come?
Pale, trembling age, and fiery youth,
And childhood with its brow of truth,
The rich and poor, by land and sea—
Where will the mighty millions be,
A hundred years to come?

We all within our graves shall sleep,
A hundred years to come;
No living soul for us will weep,
A hundred years to come;
But other men our lands shall till,
And others then our streets shall fill,
While other birds shall sing as gay,
As bright the sunshine as today,
A hundred years to come!

WHY ARE PEOPLE LONELY?

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

Loneliness — the awfulness of being without companionship day after day. This complaint comes to my desk more often than any other.

Sometimes I can relieve the condition; but often my efforts are futile.

Why are people lonely? There are many reasons, a few of which I will recount. First, they are lonely because they are old. It is not merely the passage of the years which creates the condition. It is the fact that as the years fly we cling too much to a few people and so short circuit ourselves from the racial current. Sympathy for youth and its aims, active help to the immature, and a sense of proportion that will keep us from patronizing the young, are the best methods of guarding against loneliness in our declining years.

Next, people are lonely because they are poor. I do not mean extremely poor. The very poor are often more blessed with love and friends than the rich. I mean by "poor" those whom we describe as shabby genteel, those who are ambitious, but whose gifts are inadequate to furnish them with enough to feed and clothe themselves fitly, much less to secure to them money for amusements or the mechanical means of entertainment, such as phonographs, vehicles and club memberships. No institutional substitutes for social life can reach these people. They resent the thought of charity even in the form of companionship. They are the desolate of the world and their lives are truly pitiful.

Then people are lonely because they are commonplace. In small towns the run of average citizenship is commonplace, consequently uninteresting people enjoy hereditary friends, hereditary privileges, hereditary place. Let these same people change their habitation and they fill the ranks of the lonely. Because companionship has come easily they have formed no tricks that can be turned to account for entertainment; they have no general sympathies, no understanding of the universal problems of mankind.

And finally people are lonely because they refuse to give generously of what they have. They hold back interest for a chosen few, even when the few are not available, just as cows hold back milk for their calves.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

WHY WAIT TO BE FORCED?

[Chicago Evening Post]

General Pershing painted a somewhat alarming picture of the world in his talk to the Association of Commerce. Facts justify it.

"Although deep in our hearts we desire peace," said the general, "t is not difficult to imagine ourselves again forced into conflict."

It is not. It is more difficult to imagine our avoiding conflict, should it be renewed on a scale involving the great powers of the old world.

But why wait to be forced? And why confine our efforts to preparation for the hour when we may be forced?

Is there nothing we can do to avert the development of a situation which will drive us to war?

A foreign policy which virtually declares we will have nothing to do with old world problems until they assume a form which requires our intervention with bayonets and machine guns, and which admits they may at any time assume such a form, lacks a good deal of being intelligent. If that is to remain American policy, then General Pershing does not ask enough.

If we are never to co-operate with Europe again until we become associates in arms, fighting for the defense of freedom, and if we believe, as does General Pershing, that necessity for such an association may confront us soon and suddenly, then we should do more than we are now doing to be ready.

But, whatever preparation it may be wise to make for such a contingency, is it not even wiser to employ the opportunities of the present for the organization of the world on a peace basis? Is there no room for preventive science in international politics?

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

The ethics of the stolen kiss seem to need definition. Even in the matter of money valuation, there is lack of understanding. The charming individual, alleging that she has been kissed against her will, and wishful to have the settlement on a financial basis, is as apt to demand $500 as $25,000, and as likely to get one sum as the other.

HENRY JAMES

As a rule such cases are settled out of court, at what is assumed to be a substantial discount for cash.

Recently a man was put in jail charged with having beaten his wife nearly to death. For the purposes of assault he is said to have used golf clubs, his shod feet, and active fists. The defense he has formulated so far, is that his wife, at a house party, had permitted a male guest to kiss her. This, is a different variety of stolen kiss, the caress apparently regarded as theft by the unqualified male, with the connivance of the wife.

The second man in the triangle deserved the castigation, if any was merited. The case of the husband in reality was against him. Probably the task of beating a helpless woman seemed to the indignant husband more safe and pleasing.

No real man beats a woman with clubs, kicks her, breaks her bones. If there was a real man in the case, he was not the husband. However, this does not seem to be settling the ethics of stolen kisses at all, and might as well be left to the courts.

When a crusade is in progress there is difficulty in differentiating the false crusader from the true. Doubtless the late Anthony Comstock meant well in the beginning, but after he had fought vice for a while, his mind became tainted from contact.

In San Francisco in the nineties there was an active agent of the anti-vice society, who at first did excellent work. Before the end of his official career he had become vile as any of the creatures it had been his duty to expose and restrain. Finally he was sent to the penitentiary for a term of eight years, reckoned by all observers, to be too short.

In the war on narcotics, almost a holy war, the poisonous pretender is beginning to be active. The good men and women engaged in the battle against this great evil of illicit drugs are being befooled and betrayed. Some who profess to work with them are the active agents of the nefarious business, veritably recalling the figure of wolves in sheep's clothing.

* * *

On New Year's day Harry Rutan, out for a season of pleasure and rest, was drowned. The news caused deep sadness in the office where the genial presence of Rutan was familiar, and where he long ago had held the respect and affection of his associates.

Rutan was well known in newspaper circles, having been identified with different business departments. He had been with the former Los Angeles Tribune, with the Express of that city, and latterly with the Pasadena Post. His sterling character had won him many friends in the commercial world. In his circle of intimates he was esteemed as a loyal friend, a useful citizen.

In the war Rutan had served overseas for the Y. M. C. A. In Italy, under fire, he displayed such courage and initiative that the Italian government bestowed upon him the highest token for valor. He was modest, kind; a Christian gentleman. In the places that knew him well he is deeply mourned.

Perhaps it is a little hard on the pride of an eastern eleven to come clear across the continent to lose a game. However, the players from Pennsylvania acquitted themselves well, even if they found tackling the invincible was a tough job.

Besides, think of all the miles of flowers they saw. On New Year's day at that! An experience with the weather in southern California must have been worth the trip.

* * *

The Los Angeles police have in charge two young women whom they accuse as highway robbers. Of course the women are pretty. There is no unpretty female prisoner glimpsed by any reporter. But it is to be hoped that when the pair face a jury, the inquisition will be as to their character and activities rather than the pulchritude of their mugs.

For many moons the public has been vaguely aware that lady bandits were engaged in banditing. Stories have been told of the silvery laugh with which the fair ones made the threat to shoot. Perhaps it has been gallantry rather than fearfulness that has saved the hides of beauty unpunctured. But it is forbidden that a court be gallant, or that it play favorites.

Happily there is a capacious department for women at San Quentin and the large cell reserved for Mrs. Phillips is available for other use.

WATCHING THE PARADE

BY JOHN PILGRIM

Not long ago an agent got past the outer guard, who was at the moment reading a novel I had procured for my own evening entertainment, and burst in upon the holy privacy of my inner office. Before I could get rid of him he had unloaded a small tin savings bank on me—one of those devices made in the form and almost the size of a watch, so that it can be caried conveniently in the vest pocket.

"I will not open an account in your bank," I said petulantly. "I do not want this miserable trinket. Take it away."

"I will come back for it in two weeks," said he. "Then I'll take it up if you do not want it. But I want you to carry it in your pocket until that time."

There must have been something hypnotic about that young man's eye, for I put it in my pocket. At intervals I felt it when I was excavating for my keys or a little more money for the foreigner who serves me lunch and then I good-naturedly dropped in dimes and quarters. I thought I would give the gadget a fair tryout. This morning he came back to get his little self-saver and I started a saving account in his bank. I had enough in that tin snuff box to make it worth while.

"Did you do without any of the little extravagances to which you are accustomed?" he asked.

I had to tell him that I had not missed a thing, so far as I could remember. For years I have made it a rule to put a certain sum of money in my pocket each Monday for the week's petty cash. If I have unusual expenses I pay them out of other funds, but the few dollars I start the week with are intended for the countless small expenses of daily life—cigars, newspapers, carfare, apples, nickels to the Salvation Army, tips and the like. I have spent as much as I ever spend, so far as I can see, and yet it is an undeniable fact that I have enough money in the little tin bank to start a little savings account.

"What're you going to do with it?" asked Mrs. Pilgrim, an acquisitive light in her eye. I was compelled to disappoint her. That tin bank shall provide me with a new bamboo rod and fixings when next year's fishing season opens, unless I have become so warped by this extraordinary savings habit that I will prefer to watch it grow.

COURT PLACES WIFE BEFORE TOBACCO

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 5.—"A woman is only a woman, but a good cigar is a smoke," Rudyard Kipling wrote.

But the Georgia supreme court decided that a man's family should be placed above a good smoke.

The decision was rendered in the case of Nan Smith against Horace Smith, which was up on appeal after the wife had been granted $20 a month alimony and $50 attorney's fees.

"The defendant has stated that if compelled to pay the fees asked, he will have no money left for tobacco," the court stated. "We appreciate the pleasures of the weed, but when a man enters the bonds of matrimony he accepts many matrimonial burdens.

"One of these burdens is the support of his wife and children and when a conflict arises between the discharge of this duty and the use of tobacco, the latter must yield to the former."

BUILD TENNIS STADIUM AT FOREST HILLS

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Tennis has grown to such a degree of popularity in this country that the United States Lawn Tennis association is planning to finance the erection of a $500,000 stadium at Forest Hills, N. Y.

The need of more room was shown last year at the Davis Cup challenge round and at the men's singles championship in Philadelphia.

While it is praiseworthy to have in this country something to compare with the great stadium at Wimbledon, England, perhaps it is not just to other sections of the country to select Forest Hills as the site.

It is true that no other section of the country could support such a project but it is true also that other secions of the counry the entitled to see some of the classics and if a half million dollars are invested in the Forest Hills project, all the classics will go there.

* * * * * * *

Competition in practically all of the men's classes are great drawing cards, but interest in the women players has slumped, if attendance can be taken as an indication.

The women's championships at Forest Hills last year drew hardly a handful. The lack of interest was due perhaps to the justified feeling that there would be nothing to the tournament but Mrs. Molla Mallory, the champion, as one said:

"Everyone has seen Mrs. Mallory play."

To stimulate interest in the women players some foreign talent will have to be imported. It is understood that the committee will invite Miss Kathlyn McKane, the British girl star, to compete.

Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, the world's champion, may also be an entry. Her excuse last year was that she would never visit the United States as long as Julian S. Myrick headed the United States Lawn Tennis association.

Myrick is retriing now, so she may change her mind.

* * * * * * *

The French star may have another reason for coming back to vindicate herself.

Mrs. Mallory, to continue the feud between them, is going back to Europe again next summer and she may wind up in the British championships again with Suzanne.

If Suzanne should happen to beat her again she would have more inducement to come over and do it again in front of the American fans.

* * * * * * *

What will happen to Bill Tilden when he goes to play with a stump of a finger on his racquet hand, of course, is the biggest thing of interest in the coming season.

Tilden, apparently, is not so optimistic about his chances, but when he says he feels that he may not finish within the first ten next season he is following his usual tendency not to be boastful or vain about his ability.

* * * * * * *

If Tilden should happen to be seriously handicapped by the loss of his finger, slumping interest in the Davis Cup matches may be boosted.

Australia, for one, has taken the stand that it is unwise for their association to pay a huge amount of money to send a team to the United States to lose.

They, and several other nations, including the British and the Japanese, take the stand that as long as Bill Tilden and Bill Johnston are in their prime, they are unbeatable.

CITY DADS ORDER IN STREET WORK

As there was a minority protest against the opening and widening of Harvard, Kenilworth to San Fernando road, all protests were denied.

The protests against the improvement of Columbus, Park to Maple were sustained.

The time of hearing of protests against the forming of a first-class residential district on Howard, Geneva, was extended two weeks.

There were no protests against the forming of a residential district on Chestnut, from Louise to Glendale avenue, and city attorney was instructed to draft an amendment to the zoning ordinance, providing for this change.

Bids were opened for $23,000 water pipe bonds of municipal improvement district No. 7, and action in this matter was deferred for one week.

On motion of Councilman Lapham, city engineer and city attorney were instructed to start proceedings for the improvement of Piedmont Park with 3-inch macadam.

On motion of Councilman Davis it was decided to increase the number of street inspectors to six at $5 per day each.

The following resolutions were adopted:

A resolution ordering work on Carr Drive, School street and Harvard.

A resolution adopting maps, plans and profiles in office of the city engineer.

The following ordinances were adopted:

Ah amendment to Section 10 of the garbage ordinance.

An ordinance establishing the grade in Chester, Concord and Doran streets.

An ordinance establishing the grade on California avenue.

An ordinance establishing the grade on Winchester avenue.

An ordinance establishing the grade on certain alleys in Glendale.

The following ordinances were introduced:

An ordinance establishing the grade on Fernando Court, etc.

An ordinance establishing the grade on Magnolia avenue.

An ordinance ordering the work of the opening of Harvard street.

HOW TO STUDY

"How to Do Well in Your College Studies" is a new pamphlet just published by the registrar of the State College of Washington for the benefit of students who may find difficulty in adjusting themselves to the change from preparatory to collegiate class-room methods, or who for various reasons are not doing so well as they should.

The penniless man on an automatic scale is forcibly reminded that a man without money has no weight in this glorious land of the free.

HOG-FEEDING CROPS

"Crops such as barley, wheat, corn, peas, etc., all suitable for hog feeds, are grown successfully in this state," says Prof. Howard Hackedorn of the State College of Washington, discussing the problem of increasing pork production to meet consumption demands of Washington.

"At the main experiment station, Pullman, the average yield of barley for the last six years has been 3,115 pounds per acre, which is 634 pounds more than the average for spring and winter wheat for the same period. Barley and wheat have a feeding value practically equivalent to that of corn. Corn, as a grain crop, is grown successfully in some of the irrigated sections. Alfalfa and peas are used extensively as forage crops, and aside from furnishing a superior forageforage for hogs, they aid in conserving nitrogen in the soil."

HEALING CREAM STOPS CATARRH

Clogged Air Passages Open at Once—Nostrils Cleared

If your nostrils are clogged and your head stuffed because of catarrh or a cold, get Ely's Cream Balm at any drug store. Apply a little of this pure, antiseptic, germ destroying cream into your nostrils and let it penetrate through every air passage of your head and membranes. Instant relief.

How good it feels. Your head is clear. Your nostrils are open. You breathe freely. No more hawking or snuffling. Head colds and catarrh yield like magic. Don't stay stuffed up, choked up and miserable. Relief is sure.—Adv.

RED PEPPER HEAT STOPS BACKACHE

The heat of red peppers takes the "ouch" from a sore, lame back. It can not hurt you, and it certainly ends the torture at once.

When you are suffering so you can hardly get around, just try Red Pepper Rub, and you will have the quickest relief known. Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red peppers.

Just as soon as you apply Red Pepper Rub you will feel the tingling heat. In three minutes it warms the sore spot through and through. Pain and soreness are gone.

Ask any druggist for a jar of Rowles Red Pepper Rub. Be sure to get the genuine, with the name Rowles on each package.—Adv.

BEAUTIFUL HOME GROUNDS

"Plants for Home Beautification" is the title of Bulletin 85 of the Extension Service series at the State College of Washington. It is prepared by Prof. A. M. Doerner, in charge of landscape gardening and floriculture, and is extremely practical and helpful in its suggestions and directions to those who wish to know what and where to plant so as to make their home grounds attractive the year round.

After telling how to list and order nursery stock, what care to give it on receipt and how to plant it, he gives lists of native plants of Washington that are valuable as ornamentals, varieties of trees for use as windbreaks, or for ornament, shrubs classified according to the district in the state they may best be used, their time of bloom, color, height, and chief characteristics; vines, similarly classified; and perennial flowers. Artistic photographs illustrate the bulletin.

PAY AND RATIONS

An interesting comparison made by the War Department of the United States is that of a private's pay and the cost of his ration among the principal powers.

A private in the army of the United States receives $1 a day, more than is paid by any of the other big nations.

The United Kingdom takes second place, a private's pay being 2s, 9d, or 69 cents in United States currency at the normal rate of exchange.

The cost of rations in the United States is 40 cents a day. In the United Kingdom it is 2s 1d, 51 cents a day at the normal rate of exchange.

A French private receives .25 franc (1-4 franc) or 5 cents, a day's pay, and ration worth 1.7 francs (33 cents at the normal rate of exchange).

The Italian private receives one cent less than a French private, the amount being .20 lire (4 cents at the normal rate of exchange). But the cost of the Italian private's ration is more than that of a French private's when compared in American currency at the normal rate of exchange. The ration of the Italian private costs 3.58 lire (69 cents).

A Jap private is paid 12 sen (6 cents at the normal rate of exchange). In American money this is one cent more than the pay of a Frenchman, and two cents more than that of an Italian.

However, the cost of a Jap private's ration is the lowest of all. At 23.16 sen, it amounts to only 17 cents a day at the normal rate of exchange.

THE PRIDE OF POSSESSION

Securing a Home

Every man or woman at some time aspires to be a home owner.

Statistics reveal the deplorably small numbers who ever acquire a home other than in name only.

HOW MUCH of a home you can own depends upon your saving ability:

$18.00 per month acquires a $3000.00 Home
$30.00 per month acquires a $5000.00 Home
$40.00 per month acquires a $7500.00 Home
$50.00 per month acquires a $9500.00 Home

The Method by which this is accomplished is through loan contracts of the WESTERN MUTUAL FINANCE COMPANY.

Suppose you wished to secure a $5000 home. $30.00 per month invested in loan contracts of the Western Mutual Finance Company will, when the loan is made, afford sufficient cash to pay down over half the cost of the home. The balance can be handled through a straight second mortgage which subsequently can be lifted with additional contracts.

This is a safe and sure way of acquiring a home on an easy monthly payment plan at a minimum interest cost.

$30.00 per Month Secures a $5000.00 Home for You. Have You One?

On the Basis of a $1000.00 Loan acquired through our Loan Contracts the maximum interest you would pay over a period of eight years and four months would be $188.70. This cost applied to the amount on which you are paying interest amounts to 5½% on annual unpaid balances. You cannot afford to miss this opportunity. Call or write for further information.

Advertising Shortens the Road to Success

Do you doubt that a new hatter could spring up in New York and, with honest hats and brilliant advertising, in five years take its place abreast of the leaders of fifty years? It has been done.

Do you doubt that a new thought could arise in pencils, and, in two years, backed by good advertising, make a place for the pencil on the desks of the nation? That, too, has been done.

Do you doubt that a New York department store, in a bad year, could, largely through the improvement in its advertising, attract 110,000 new customers to its shop? That was done, last year.

A fine old business may consider advertising as a protection for today and insurance for tomorrow but to the young growing business it is a pair of seven league boots, which bring fame, friends and volume, years before their normal advent.

OBSERVATIONS

BY A GLENDALE OLD TIMER

Twelve years ago there was not an auto delivery in Glendale. Now the tore or business house of any kind that would send out goods in a horse-drawn vehicle would be considered a back number. The biggest grocery store in this section then was the Tropico Mercantile Company, with a sort of department store in the brick building now occupied by the Russell-Pierce Furniture Manufacturing Company, corner of San Fernando road and Eulalia street, or Central avenue, as that part of Eulalia was then called. This store had a two-horse and a one-horse delivery wagon and employed a regular solicitor who drove a handsome bay horse to a light buggy. One of these very successful solicitors was H. M. Goldsmith, "Goldy," now and for several years past proprietor of a cleaning and dyeing establishment; another was Lee Kaster, now one of Bishop & Co.'s best salesmen. O. A. Gallup was the principal owner and J. Herbert Smith manager. Now these two men are proprietors of grocerterias, one in South Glendale and the other on North Brand. The next largest store of this class was in the Logan building, corner of Third street (now Wilson avenue) and Brand boulevard, and Mr. Andree was the manager. Russell & Son succeeded him and now the Quality grocery and meat market has that location. One day the two-horse team of the Logan grocery ran away, careering straight down Brand, on the east side of the P. E. tracks, with the driver sawing on the lines until he was thrown off by the lurching vehicle. The horses ran into the fence that enclosed the P. E. right-of-way, when they reached the dividing line between Glendale and Tropico, and stopped, probably because they feared to enter upon the territory of the great rival, the Tropico Mercantile. Didn't you know that the P. E. right-of-way was fenced in from the profaning touch of the pedestrian in those days, but in Tropico alone? The enclosed area extended from the dividing line of the two cities, about half way between 9th and 10th streets (now Windsor Road and Garfield avenue) to Cypress avenue, with one opening at Park avenue. And at that time, as I have mentioned in previous articles, there was no crossing of the tracks between Park avenue and Sixth street (now Colorado). Now only Garfield avenue and Acacia avenue remain unopened between those points, while below Park avenue, Palmer, Laurel and Eulalia remain closed to traffic. Some day the tracks from one end of the city to the other will be lowered to grade and the right-of-way paved. Then Glendale will shed her village clothes and become a real city, subject no longer to the arbitrary whims of a corporation that has made millions from the patronage of her citizens.

Many years ago, 25 or more, Paul Dressler wrote a song that was very popular in Illinois and Indiana, "On the Banks of the Wabash, Far Away." One line of the chorus was "Through the sycamores the candle lights are gleaming." This was true when the song was written, but is so no longer. The gigantic sycamores, some of them five feet in diameter, and the walnut, pecan, hickory, oak, elm and beech trees that formerly lined that noble stream have been nearly all cut down to allow the ground to be planted to corn, oats and wheat. The mighty current that used to fill the channel from bank to bank and bear on its rushing tide steamships, flatboats and canoes innumerable, has dwindled to a puny stream that in midsummer may be almost leaped across. But in the days when steamboats breasted the waters as far up as Lafayette, Indiana, many scores of miles beyond the present navigation limits, the storied Wabash was a stream of romance and entrancing beauty. I remember as if 'twas yesterday at trip down the river rfom Terre Haute, Ind., to Hutsonville, Illinois, full 35 years ago, on a commodious steamboat, the Janie Lea, I think it was. There were about 50 oJf us, including the members of a boys' band. We started at 5 p. m. and did not arrive at our destination, 50 miles away, until after midnight. It was a very dark night and as the ship steamed rapidly along, following the many sinuosities of the crooked channel, the magnificent tree growth on both banks seemed to shut us in as a wall. There were many openings, however, and through these we could catch the candles' gleaming lights. And when the band began to play, and the sweet strains floated far in the still night air, we could catch new "candle lights gleaming through the sycamores" as householders, hearing the music, hastened rfom their beds and lighted their way to door or window that they might locate the sweet sounds. But the days of the steamboat on the Wabash all the year around are forever past, unless for a short stretch near the mouth, and the giant sycamores only a memory.

In 1910, I was informed several years ago by a then prominent realtor, now deceased, the ground lying between Sixth and Fourth (now Colorado and Broadway), bounded on east and west by Orange and Central, respectively, could have been bought for $30,000. There were three buildings on it then—the A. B. Morrison home at Sixth and Central, what was known then as the Woods home at Sixth and Orange, and a one-story bungolow just north of the last named. Think what a magnificent Central park this would have made. It was a source of regret to this far-seeing man, to the day of his death, that this plat of ground, now worth, with the buildings upon it, not far from a million dollars, was not secured for this purpose. A better location could not be conceived of. At that time, however, the Valley View tract, bounded by Broadway, Central, Riverdale and San Fernando road, was not a part of the city, so the park would have skirted the western boundary. And, also, the city had no money to spend for parks at that time. A chamber of commerce might have provided a way but we had no such body then.

All you old-timers who once followed a plow when you lived on the dear old farm back there in Iowa, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, or some other great agricultural state, hold up your hands. Thank you. Several thousand of you, I notice. And say, wasn't it glorious, in early spring, to turn out at 4 a. m., feed and harness the horses, milk the cows and then go into breakfast, hurrying through that you might get to the field and begin turning over the sod by sunup! Oh, those wonderful mornings, when the air was fragrant with the odor of spring blossoms, such as wild plum and crabapple, dogwood, red haw and many others, and the birds pouring forth sweetest music in their ecstacy over the return of spring! And didn't the fresh-turned earth smell good, too? Such experiences were almost heavenly, weren't they? But how about the fall plowing, especially in ground where were a lot of old, half-rotted stumps, favorite locations for nests of sturdy bumblebees? Not so jolly, eh? The yellow jacket, when you plowed up his nest, gave you all the vicious stings he could get in, then hovered about his ruined nest, mourning its destruction. Not so the bumble bee, however. When you rudely threw his domicile out with the plow, or disturbed it in any way, you had sure started something. He would follow after you to the end of that furrow, if it was a mile, and land a sting every chance he got. And he was no sneaking fighter, either. He gave deadly warning of his presence and if you didn't manage to kill him he would certainly land on you with his sharp poisoned sword. And how he'd come in force to attack your horses, driving them mad with their stings until they would rush madly away, dragging the heavy plow, which sometimes, rebounding from a clutching root or stump, inflicted dreadful wounds upon them. I tell you it was no fun to stir up a bumble bees' nest.

Friends, we sure have a president with backbone. Harding's veto of the pension bill for the reasons given by him, was an act of highest courage. And his veto of the bonus bill was another act requiring sublime courage, for he was in full sympathy with the soldiers and would have gladly approved any measure for their relief that could have been financed, but he refused to approve a bill that contained absolutely no provision for the raising of the billions of money needed to carry out its requirements. The bill was passed by congress merely to placate the people who demanded such a measure and apparently with the deliberate intent to place the onus of its necessary rejection on the president. But he courageously refused to "be the goat" and many of the legislators who sought to "put him in a hole" were justly retired to private life by incensed constituents. The president again showed the courage of his convictions when he refused to give audience to a gang of wet sympathizers who wished to protest to him against enforcement of the provisions of the 18th amendment. Read his comments on this refusal and his reasons for vetoing the pension act, as reported in Thursday morning's papers. All honor to our president.

USE SULPHUR TO HEAL YOUR SKIN

Broken Out Skin and Itching Eczema Helped Over Night

For unsightly skin eruptions, rash or blotches on face, neck, arms or body, you do not have to wait for relief from torture or embarrassment, declares a noted skin specialist. Apply a little Mentho-Sulphur and improvement shows next day.

Because of its germ destroying properties, nothing has ever been found to take the place of this sulphur preparation. The moment you apply it healing begins. Only those who have had unsightly skin troubles can know the delight this Mentho-Sulphur brings. Even fiery, itching eczema is dried right up.

Get a small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like cold cream. —Adv.

Foley's Friendly Fancies

JAMES W. FOLEY

WHAT'S IT ALL ABOUT?

The sun comes up at dawn of day and goes his rosy round,
The seed we plant breaks open and comes shooting through the ground,
And then the sun goes down somewhere and all the light goes out,
And so the flower fades and dies, and what's it all about?

The little birdie builds a nest with straws and sticks and things
That from the field around about the little birdie brings,
And then the little birdies come and leave and all fly out,
And leave the little nest to rot, and what's it all about?

And ancient people builded things, with beauty and delight,
And temples rose and columns out of marble pure and white,
And then the long years took their toll, and stone and frieze fell out,
All covered with the dust of years, and what's it all about?

And some Egyptian monarch went and builded him a tomb,
With slabs and shafts and monoliths, and many a mighty room,
And he was greeted as he ruled with many a cheer and shout,
And now he's just a mummy dry, and what's it all about?

And I am writing here a verse and it's quite hard to do,
And yet I mix my words and strive to get it done and through,
And then tomorrow comes to find it old and it's cast out,
A quite forgotten thing it is, and what's it all about?

Oh we, who plume our little selves and strut with pompous pride,
And who are vain of wealth and power and many things beside,
The gate is swung, the dark gulf yawns, and we go limping out,
And silence comes and dark and dust—and what's it all about?

And yet the warrior grips his sword, the plowman drives his share,
The little fishes swim the sea and birds fly through the air,
And you and I go daily forth to put the wolf to rout,
And strive and dream and hope to know just what it's all about.

YOUR HOMESTEAD

Do you know what a homestead right is? Are you interested in using yours? If so write to the Department of Agriculture at Washington, D. C., for Farmers' Bulletin No. 1271. It is called "Farm Lands Available for Settlement." This bulletin describes the land in the United States that is open for homesteading and tells something of the conditions in each part of the country where government land is available for settlement. A recent report from the general land office shows that in the entire United States, there are about 183,000,000 acres of appropriated lands outside the regular reservations. Much of this land has already been surveyed and is awaiting settlement.

It is said that political graveyards are never robbed, yet there are a lot of dead ones in politics.

Signs of the Times in Prophecy

"Millions now living will never die."
—Judge Rutherford.

Not in a hundred years, or since the French Revolution and the wars of Napoleon, has the world seen a like period, and that period is outclassed by the magnitude of the issues now involved.

Prophetic utterances of both the Old and New Testament take on a new meaning. Certain it is that a new awakening in prophetic study is here. On all sides men are asking concerning the relation of Bible Prophecy to the present turmoil and unrest.

In this momentous lecture Mr. Stark will bring positive proof, by linking Bible prophecies with present day events, that the Kingdom of Messiah will soon completely supplant the existing rulership of earth and, because of this fact, there are millions now living who will actually never go into the grave. The lecture is not a dry discussion of theology, nor an attempt to convert you to some new, fanatical religion, but it is a glorious proclamation of "this Gospel of the Kingdom" which Jesus said must be preached in all the world for a witness before the end comes.

You will be thrilled—your heart will rejoice, and you will leave the Auditorium with that which money cannot buy—a clear insight into the conditions confronting the world today and of the glorious outcome.
